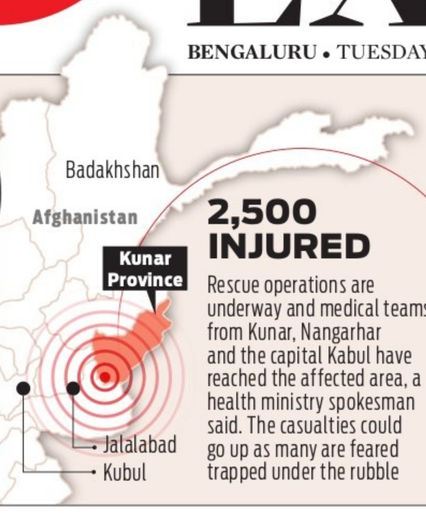
DEAD AND COUNTING AS MASSIVE QUAKE JOLTS AFGHANISTAN



The 6.0 earthquake that struck near Afghanistan's Jalalabad on Sunday night has killed 800 people, a Taliban government spokesman said on Monday, adding most of the casualties were in Kunar province

2,500 INJURED
Rescue operations are underway and medical teams from Kunar, Nangarhar and the capital Kabul have reached the affected area, a health ministry spokesman said. The casualties could go up as many are feared trapped under the rubble

8
The earthquake occurred at a depth of just 8 kilometres. Such shallow quakes tend to cause more intense surface shaking

27
The quake's epicentre was 27 kilometres east-northeast of Jalalabad. This placed it close to populated areas, including towns in Kunar province

11.47 PM
On Sunday was when the earthquake struck, catching many people while they were sleeping. This led to the high death toll

3,00,000
Estimated population of the city of Jalalabad, according to municipal estimates. Its larger metropolitan area makes it a significant urban centre near the quake's epicentre

India assures aid
India has started delivering relief materials for earthquake-affected people in Afghanistan, with External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar assuring his Afghan counterpart Amir Khan Muttaqi of more supplies

PM raps double standards on terror at SCO summit

Jt declaration condemns Pahalgam attack, calls for perpetrators to be brought to justice

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

WITH his Pakistani counterpart Shehbaz Sharif in attendance, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday used the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) summit to deliver a pointed warning against cross-border terror, calling the recent Pahalgam attack "an open challenge to every country that believes in humanity".

Without naming Pakistan, Modi condemned "open support for terrorism by some countries" and urged SCO member states to take an unambiguous stand. "No double standards on terrorism will be acceptable," he said, warning that the menace must be opposed "in all its forms and colours". The comments come amid renewed concerns in India over Pakistan-based terror networks and their transnational enablers.

"For the past four decades, India has been bearing the grave scars of ruthless terrorism," Modi said adding that the "ugly face of terrorism" was once again visible in the Pahalgam attack, which claimed the lives of 26 innocent tourists in April.

The SCO summit's joint declaration later echoed Modi's tone, with member states condemning the Pahalgam attack and calling for the perpetrators to be brought to justice. It also mentioned two terror attacks in Pakistan.

"We must state it clearly and in one voice: double standards on terrorism are unacceptable. Together, we must oppose terrorism in every form and manifestation. This is our responsibility towards humanity," the prime minister said.

While terrorism dominated Modi's address, he also delivered a veiled message on sovereignty concerns in regional connectivity projects, a likely reference to the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC), which runs through Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK). Without naming any initiative, Modi said connectivity must be based on "respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all member states," a long-standing Indian position that implicitly critiques China's Belt and Road projects passing through disputed territory.

"We believe that every effort towards connectivity must uphold the principles of sovereignty and territorial integrity. This is also enshrined in the core principles of the SCO Charter. Connectivity, that bypasses sovereignty, ultimately loses both trust and meaning," Modi said.

Russian President Vladimir Putin blamed NATO expansion and what he called the 2014 "coup in Kiev" as root causes of the Ukraine conflict. Chinese President Xi Jinping, meanwhile, took aim at "bullying behaviour" in the global order, calling for a rejection of bloc politics and Cold War mentalities, a stance widely interpreted as criticism of US dominance.

Modi, Putin add to strategic bond

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

IN a strong display of personal rapport and strategic alignment, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Russian President Vladimir Putin held a bilateral meeting on Monday amid US pressure over India's Russian oil imports and growing international calls for an end to the war in Ukraine, with Modi expressing support for recent peace efforts and urging all sides to move forward constructively.

The meeting took place on the sidelines of the SCO summit, where Modi and Putin walked hand-in-hand toward Chinese President Xi Jinping in a striking image of diplomacy in an increasingly polarised and ready-to-realign global order. Calling each other "dear friend", Modi and Putin held their one-on-one conversation inside the Russian leader's armoured Aurus limousine, a rare gesture reserved for chosen friends and trusted allies.

> We welcome all recent efforts to bring peace (in Ukraine) and hope that all relevant sides will move forward constructively
>
> Narendra Modi, prime minister

"Even in the most difficult situations, India and Russia have always walked shoulder to shoulder," Modi said, and added that their close relations are significant for global peace, stability and prosperity.

Putin echoed the sentiment, highlighting a "friendly and trusting" foundation that would guide future cooperation. Addressing Modi, he said, "Dear Prime Minister, my dear friend, Russia and India have for decades maintained special relations of friendship and trust, which is the foundation for our future relationship."

Putin said the India-Russia relations are "politically non-partisan and have the support of the majority of people in both countries". The personal warmth and intent to step up the ties came amid rising tensions in India-US relations, particularly over Washington's tariff response to India's purchases of discounted Russian crude. With the global power centres shifting, Modi's meeting with Putin sent a calibrated message of India pursuing a multipolar strategy, balancing ties with Russia, engaging with the West, and calling for lasting peace in Ukraine.

INDIA TRADE A 'ONE-SIDED DISASTER' FOR USA: TRUMP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

US President Donald Trump, in his latest meltdown, coming just hours after Prime Minister Narendra Modi met Chinese President Xi Jinping and Russian leader Vladimir Putin on the sidelines of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation summit in Tianjin, called the India-US trade relationship a "totally one-sided" disaster for the US. He then claimed New Delhi offered to cut tariffs on US goods to 'nothing, but it was getting late.

Donald Trump

"We do very little business with India, but they do a tremendous amount of business with us," Trump posted on Truth Social. Trump said because of India's "high tariffs", the trade relationship has been a "totally one-sided disaster" for the US . Trump claimed India has now offered to cut tariffs to nothing, adding, "they should have done so years ago".

It was not just Trump who had a meltdown. His top trade advisor Peter Navarro, who has consistently criticised Delhi, claimed Brahmins are profiteering from Russian oil purchase. "I would just simply say, the Indian people, please understand what's going on here. You got Brahmins profiteering at the expense of the Indian people," he said in an interview.

BJP slams govt on SIT; wants NIA to probe 'conspiracy'

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

BJP leaders on Monday criticised the state government for constituting a Special Investigation Team (SIT) to probe the alleged mass burial case in Dharmasthala, claiming that the move was politically motivated and lacked prima facie evidence.

Addressing a massive crowd that had gathered at the temple town from across the state, BJP state president BY Vijayendra alleged that the SIT was set up solely based on a complaint from "a streetwalker" without any preliminary inquiry.

He accused the government of attempting to tarnish the reputation of the Dharmasthala temple and warned against testing the patience of Hindus. "This rally should not be taken lightly. We will not rest until the real conspirators are exposed. We demand a thorough probe by the NIA or CBI," Vijayendra said.

Vijayendra said the Congress has failed to ensure justice for Hindus. "Whenever Siddaramaiah is in power, attacks on Hindu temples rise," he said. P4

'Vote theft H-bomb' coming, says Rahul

PREETHA NAIR @ Patna

AS the two-week-long Voter Adhikar Yatra wound up in the Bihar capital on Monday, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said his party would soon drop a 'hydrogen bomb' of revelations on the alleged vote theft, following which Prime Minister Modi would not be able to show his face to the nation.

Rahul Gandhi

Addressing a mammoth rally here, Gandhi escalated his fusillade against the Election Commission saying votes were stolen in the Maharashtra Assembly elections, and with evidence, his party showed how 'vote theft' was done in the Mahadevapura Assembly segment in Karnataka's Bangalore Central Lok Sabha seat.

"I want to tell the BJP people. Have you heard of anything bigger than an atom bomb? It is a hydrogen bomb. BJP supporters, be prepared, a hydrogen bomb is on the way. People are soon going to find out the reality of vote theft. I want to tell the youth of Bihar, vote theft means 'snatching away rights, democracy, and employment. They will take away your ration card and other rights," said Gandhi, as the crowd chanted "Vote thieves, leave the chair" — a slogan adopted during the march.

Maintaining that vote theft was an attack on the Constitution and the rights of people, Gandhi said the same forces that killed Mahatma Gandhi are now trying to kill the Constitution. "But we will not allow that to happen at any cost," he asserted.

Braving the scorching heat, tens of thousands of supporters gathered at the 'Gandhi se Ambedkar' march, waving flags of RJD, Congress, CPI(ML), CPI(M), CPI, and VIP with a battle cry against the Modi government and the EC.

Labourer dies as rain triggers mudslide in Y'hanka

5 trees uprooted
The heavy rain uprooted five trees and led to slow-moving traffic due to water logging.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A construction labourer died, while another was critically injured after mud caved in at an under-construction site in the Yelahanka police limits on Monday night.

The police said the workers, employed by a private real estate group, were carrying out excavation work when the mud collapsed because of heavy rain. The deceased, hailing from Andhra Pradesh, died on the spot after getting trapped under the soil. Another worker, who sustained severe injuries, has been admitted to a private hospital, the police added.

The Yelahanka police rushed to the spot after receiving an alert from other labourers at the site. An officer said the identity of the deceased is yet to be established. Heavy rain in the evening is said to have triggered the mud collapse at the construction site. P2

SC RULING

TET must for school teachers to remain in service

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday ruled that the Teachers' Eligibility Test (TET) is a mandatory requirement for appointment as teachers and for teachers in service to seek promotions.

A bench of justices Dipankar Datta and Augustine George Masih said in their verdict that teachers with more than five years to retire, must qualify for the TET within two years to remain in service. Otherwise, they may quit or apply for compulsory retirement with terminal benefits, the bench stated.

The court offered relief to those who have less than five years to retire, saying they need not qualify the TET. However, they will not be eligible for promotion.

The bench delivered the verdict after hearing a batch of petitions, including those from Tamil Nadu and Maharashtra, regarding whether the TET is mandatory for teaching service.

One of the appellants, Anjuman Ishaat-e-Taleem Trust (a recognised minority education society), had also moved the SC against the State of Maharashtra in the case.

The question of whether the State can mandate TET for minority institutions and how it would affect their rights was referred to a larger Bench by the top court.

"We hold that the provisions of the RTE Act have to be complied with by all schools as defined in Section 2(n) of the RTE Act, except the schools established and administered by the minority, whether religious or linguistic, till such time the reference is decided and subject to the answers to the questions formulated," the order said.

Kannada outfits oppose GBA's English name

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

WITH the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) becoming a thing of the past, paving way for the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) administration from today (Tuesday), Kannada organisations have taken objection to the name and demanded a Kannada name for the administration of Bengaluru city.

The demand comes from Kannada outfits in the backdrop of municipal bodies like Mumbai and Chennai giving preference to their state's official and regional language. While Mumbai Civic body is named Brihanmumbai Mahanagar Palika, Chennai's civic body is named 'Perunagara Chennai Maanagaraatchi'.

While BBMP Chief Commissioner M Maheshwar Rao said so far, no proposal for a Kannada name has been sent to the government, Purushottam Bilimale, Chairman of the Kannada Development Authority (KDA), dashed off a letter to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah over the Kannada name for the administrative body of Bengaluru, on Monday.

Earlier, the KDA had written to the government requesting the reservation of the Mayor and Deputy Mayor posts in five corporations for Kannadigas, as some areas have a majority of non-Kannadigas.

"The name Greater Bengaluru Authority is a word that mostly reflects the English language, and there is need to give Kannada touch (Kannadathana) to the name. If a Kannada name is used, the language will not only get the respect it deserves, but the proposed authority will also have opportunities to become closer to Kannadigas, emotionally. In this regard, the government should seriously consider using an alternative Kannada word for the Greater Bengaluru Authority," Bilimale stated in the letter to the CM.

Feature-loaded DLs, RCs to be issued from Sept-end

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

UNDER the 'One Nation One Card', the driving licence (DL) and vehicle registration certificate (RC) cards will get a new look and will have additional features. If all goes as planned, the transport department will start issuing the new tamper-proof DL and RC cards, embedded with microchip, QR codes and loaded with details of the DL holder and vehicle, from this month-end or early next month.

Transport officials said the new cards are part of the central government's reforms to improve the transport sector. Tamil Nadu and other states have already started issuing the new cards, they added.

"Old DLs only had the DL number, address, blood group, date of birth, phone number and type of vehicle permitted to ride and drive. The new cards will have up to 25 different data points with additional details like the declaration on organ donation, mobile numbers to be contacted in case of an emergency and biometric data. Except for few common details, the rest of the information can be accessed by only authorised personnel like police and transport officials. The card will have near-field communication (NFC) feature, enabling the traffic police to get digital access to driver's details quickly and easily. This makes enforcement easier," the official said.

Earlier, the cards were printed at the Regional Transport Offices across Karnataka. But now, a separate cell is being set up at the transport department head office in Bengaluru. All cards will be printed here and dispatched to motorists' addresses, he added.

"The new cards will be made from polycarbonate as against polyvinyl chloride used earlier. The new cards will have laser-engraved text similar to what is on ATM cards. This will ensure that the details don't get faded away," he added.

PETER VIDAL

02ND September: The Moon is soon to make one of its more traditional patterns. People born under this position are obstinate but also often charming, friendly and helpful and the world would be a better place if there were more like them. It follows that today is a day for good manners, courteous behaviour and consideration for strangers.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Both Mercury and Venus are challenging your emotional preconceptions, so a partner may be engaging in a spot of self-indulgent and wilful opposition to your plans. Your best policy is to be patient and sit it out, waiting until the end of the week for a change in the planetary picture.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Hard work and confusion are mixed together in equal measure. It's lunar patterns which are responsible for making you a little headstrong. And it's not that you are about to do the wrong thing, but you may be stirred by your feelings, rather than by the facts.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You must realise that for far too long you have allowed other people to dominate the emotional atmosphere, especially at work. Now you have a choice as to whether to keep your head down and avoid trouble, or face the issues head-on. Take your time, especially if there's a great deal riding on your decision.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Life, as they say, is a game of give and take. Don't be deceived into imagining that you can get away with everything that you want, but look at what you can do for partners. It's important to understand that other people may offer you their agreement, but then do something else!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The chances for misunderstandings are now at a peak. This is all very well if there's nothing important to decide, but if crucial matters are hanging on your every word, be sure that others comprehend exactly what you are trying to say. That way they'll share the responsibility if your plans don't work out.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Financially speaking, there now seems to be a light at the end of the tunnel; all it takes is confidence and a willingness to put yourself on the line. Seek extra information, but be discreet. You may even be lured into a spot of gossip, but don't do someone down behind their back.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
This should be a time when you come into your own. But life is rarely so simple. It's because partners admire you that they could be urging you to rearrange your affairs and take up activities you'd rather leave well alone. Make sure you're not left high and dry though, while other people walk away.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may dig as deep as you like where emotional matters are concerned. There could be skeletons rattling in cupboards, but that's no reason to stand back and avoid facing what you know to be true. The question, though, is what you actually do about it. For that you need to consult wiser heads.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Everyone is liable to suffer misunderstandings, but you in particular will discover that confusion centres around money. It goes without saying that you should watch out that you're not short-changed. The last thing you want now is for someone to make a mug of you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Today's world favours poets, storytellers and everyone with imagination. There therefore seems to be little point in expecting anyone, especially those in authority, to see the facts as you do. Perhaps you should concentrate on creating a good impression.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You have a fresh chance to put your dreams into action, but first of all you need to know what they are. Otherwise you'll follow blind alleys and cul-de-sacs. Yet even these, pointless as they might seem at first sight, will help you clarify your options.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
If professional plans are about to be finalized, you can probably wait until tomorrow or the day after. This is a day for imaginative schemes, especially if you have ever dreamt of travelling around the world or otherwise expanding your consciousness.

Prisoner entitled to remission if no order against it, says HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court recently held that if the sentence is for a specified term, a detenue is entitled to remission and will not have to complete the entire term, unless the sentence makes it clear that the detenue should not be entitled to premature release or remission, or parole or the like.

The high court held that there is no particular embargo under Rule 164(v) of the Karnataka Prisons and Correctional Services Manual, 2021, for the grant of remission. What this implies is that the detenue or prisoner will have to qualify the requirements for the grant of remission, which will have to be considered in a proper and judicious manner by the authorities concerned, the court added.

Justice Suraj Govindaraj passed the order, allowing the petition filed by Deepa Angadi, questioning the rejection of request for remission of three prisoners, including her husband Siddappa. All three were sentenced to 21 years in 2008 in a murder case.

The court directed the prison department to reconsider the applications of the detenues, and, if found qualified, grant remission as per Chapter 13 of the Karnataka Prisons and Correctional Services Manual, 2021.

The application of the three prisoners was rejected on the ground that remission is not a matter of right to any prisoner under Rule 164(v). The petitioners contended that merely because an accused is sentenced to imprisonment for 20 years or more would not disentitle such detenue from remission when the sentence does not make that the condition or part of the sentence. There is no embargo on a detenue sentenced to imprisonment for life to be released by remitting the sentence.

The government advocate, however, contended that remission under Section 63(2)(e) of the Karnataka Prisons Act, 1963, is not a matter of right, and it is left to the discretion of authorities. The sentence in this case is for a specific term and hence remission cannot be granted, he argued.

Gang clash inside Bengaluru South district jail: 23 undertrials booked

Bengaluru: AS many as 23 undertrial prisoners lodged in Ramanagara in Bengaluru South district have been booked for creating a ruckus inside the prison. The prisoners were from two separate gangs. The leaders of these gangs went to check if they had any visitors and had a verbal altercation, which led to the clash during the visiting hour on Thursday, around 5.30 pm near the D gate. The prisoners allegedly argued with and obstructed the prison officials who tried to control them.Rakesha Kambale, Superintendent of the Prison, filed a complaint on Friday at the Ramanagara Town police station. Around nine jail staff managed to stop the prisoners and sent them to their cells. Among the accused, T Devaraju and Harsha alias Kaima, were the first to start the argument. "Five of them have been shifted to Mandya jail, and we are waiting for instructions from higher-ups in case we need to shift any others to different prisons. The prisoners created a ruckus when they came out of their cells to meet visitors. None of the prisoners were injured, and it was just verbal arguments. The prison officials have sustained minor injuries after they were pushed by the accused," said an officer. A case of assault or criminal force to deter public servants from discharge of duty under section 132 of the BNS has been registered against all of them. ENS

CONVERSION MAFIA BEHIND D'STHALA ROW, ALLEGES BJP

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

ALLEGING a deep-rooted conspiracy to malign Hindu religious institutions, BJP leaders on Monday claimed that the ongoing controversy surrounding the Dharmasthala temple was orchestrated by a "religious conversion mafia" and predicted it would lead to the fall of the Siddaramaiah-led Congress government in Karnataka.

Speaking at the massive 'Dharmasthala Chalo' rally, BJP state president BY Vijayendra accused the Congress government of deliberately targeting Hindu shrines and attempting to divide the Hindu community, particularly in Dakshina Kannada, a region considered a BJP stronghold.

"Whenever Siddaramaiah is in power, attacks on Hindu temples rise. The allegations against Dharmasthala are not just baseless but a deliberate attempt to break Hindu unity. The Congress has failed to ensure justice for Hindus and has resorted to appeasement politics," Vijayendra charged.

He also criticized the state government's decision to invite International Booker Prize awardee Banu Mushtaq to inaugurate this year's Mysuru Dasara, calling it a reflection of Congress's "anti-Hindu mindset". Vijayendra urged people to continue their resistance until the current government is removed from power.

Union Minister Pralhad Joshi said a situation must be created where people decisively reject the Congress. "This is a repeat of what happened in Sabarimala. There is a larger, calculated conspiracy to desecrate sacred Hindu spaces, and it must be stopped," Joshi said.

Leader of the Opposition R Ashoka accused the Congress of producing a "big cinema" with the Dharmasthala controversy, claiming it was orchestrated by forces involved in religious conversions. "This is not just about one temple. There is a systematic attack on many Hindu temples. This convention is meant to unite Hindus and expose this conversion toolkit," he said, adding, "If our religion is protected, we will survive as a society."

Former CM and Belagavi MP Jagadish Shettar said Siddaramaiah has consistently tried to divide the Hindu community for political gain. "Every time he comes to power, he tries to create communal divisions. But this time, the countdown for his government's fall has begun," he declared.

MLC CT Ravi accused the Congress of deliberately ignoring the sustained efforts of the Dharmasthala temple, which has been involved in religious and social service for over 850 years. "This is not about politics; it's about justice for our religion. The conversion mafia is behind this slander campaign, and Siddaramaiah lacks the courage to expose them," Ravi said.

Former minister B Sriramulu said the Congress government would fall because it had chosen to "wage a battle against Lord Manjunatha himself".

BYV VISITS SOWJANYA'S HOUSE, ASSURES SUPPORT FOR APPEAL IN SC

MANGALURU: BJP state president BY Vijayendra on Monday visited the house of Sowjanya, who was raped and murdered in 2012, and extended support to her family in their fight for justice. Sowjanya's mother Kusumavathi told him that she is being targeted for seeking justice for her daughter. "We are being oppressed just for seeking justice. Your own party people are criticising us, saying we have built a big house and accusing us of making money using Sowjanya's name. Is there no justice for us," she asked Vijayendra. Kusumavathi alleged that there were veiled threats and efforts made to silence her family when they sought that the accused be punished. The BJP state chief told her: "My purpose of meeting you is to extend support if you decide to appeal in the apex court against the CBI court order."

LOCAL LEADERS QUESTION 'SMEAR CAMPAIGN' AGAINST TEMPLE

MANGALURU: Sri Dharmasthala Dharma Samrakshana Vedike of Puttur taluk organised a 'Janaagraha Sabhe' on Monday at the Sri Mahalingeshwara Temple in Puttur, condemning the alleged smear campaign and misinformation targeting the Dharmasthala temple and Dharmadhikari Dr D Veerendra Heggade. Puttur MLA Ashok Kumar Rai said the allegations had caused confusion and unrest among devotees. However, he asserted that the ongoing SIT probe has helped restore confidence. "Dakshina Kannada is a hub for temple tourism, attracting nearly 10 crore devotees annually. We will not tolerate any attempts to tarnish the image of our temples," the Congress MLA declared. Former BJP state chief Nalin Kumar Kateel alleged that the campaign was part of a broader ideological conspiracy. "Similar tactics were used against Sabarimala and Tirupati. The goal is to reduce footfalls and push for government control of Hindu temples," he stated.

Heggade supports SIT probe, says truth must prevail

MANGALURU: In a written statement read out during BJP's 'Dharmasthala Chalo', Dharmasthala Dharmadhikari Dr D Veerendra Heggade reiterated his support for the ongoing SIT probe and emphasised the need for the truth to come out. "Over the past several days, multiple developments have caused damage to the temple's reputation. These incidents have deeply hurt us. However, there is no fear, as we are walking on the path of truth and justice," said the statement. Heggade stated that he had welcomed the SIT investigation from the very beginning, and described the devotees who had gathered as the true strength and asset of the temple.

Will show spots where murder victims were buried: Villagers to SIT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

A group of villagers from Dharmasthala has submitted a letter to SIT chief Pranab Mohanty, expressing their willingness to assist the investigation by showing locations where murder victims were secretly alleged to have been buried.

The petition was signed by Tukaram Gowda, a resident of Dharmasthala, on behalf of the concerned villagers, stating that they are living in fear due to the seriousness of the allegations, but have gained some confidence following the SIT's formation to ensure an impartial and transparent investigation.

According to the letter, the villagers recognised the individual shown in the media and claimed to have witnessed him secretly transporting and burying human remains at various locations in the village. Though the activities were carried out clandestinely, the villagers emphasised that such matters rarely remain hidden in a close-knit rural setting.

The villagers further revealed that after sending their initial letter, they managed to establish direct contact with the complainant. They stated that a detailed conversation took place in which "he confirmed having buried human remains in several specific locations". However, they expressed confusion over why the complainant later retracted his claims, as reported in the media, now asserting that no such burials had taken place.

"The complainant had chosen isolated and rarely visited areas to bury the bodies," the letter read, adding, "We respectfully request the SIT to involve us in the operation to exhume the remains from the places he had earlier mentioned. We also seek permission to independently show these locations to the authorities."

The letter concludes with the villagers reiterating their resolve to cooperate fully with the SIT for the sake of truth and justice.

Masked man 'friend' of Cong: Joshi

"THE allegations against Dharmasthala are not just baseless but a deliberate attempt to break Hindu unity. The government has resorted to appeasement politics," Vijayendra charged.

Union Minister for Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution Prahlad Joshi dubbed the maskman as a 'friend of Congress' and questioned how an individual managed to exhume a skull without a magistrate's permission.

"Who is this masked man who accessed the burial site? Why wasn't he arrested and interrogated immediately?" Joshi asked, adding that the excavation was halted only after it failed to yield the desired results, and when the government began facing backlash.

Leader of the Opposition in the Karnataka Legislative Assembly, R Ashoka, acknowledged that rumours of murders in Dharmasthala have been around for over two decades but were consistently dismissed due to lack of evidence. While expressing solidarity with the demand for justice for Soujanya, he stressed that her case should not be used to malign the temple.

"A few individuals, including an MP from Tamil Nadu and some forces in Delhi, are behind this plot. Only an NIA probe can uncover the truth," Ashoka said.

P Sudhakar Reddy, BJP's coincharge for Karnataka, demanded the arrest and interrogation of Tamil Nadu MP Sasikanth Senthil, alleging his involvement in the so-called conspiracy.

Former Karnataka Chief Minister and Belagavi MP Jagadish Shettar questioned the legality and intent behind the SIT formation.

"How can a government form an SIT without prima facie evidence? The aim is clear - to slander a sacred temple. Siddaramaiah and the Leftist lobby are behind this. The Chief Minister should apologise to the devotees," Shettar said.

BJP MLC CT Ravi pointed fingers at a "religious conversion mafia," alleging that the government conveniently ignored forming SITs in cases like police station attacks, cow slaughter, 'Love Jihad', and illegal conversions, but acted swiftly when Dharmasthala was involved.

BJP's yatra will not pay political dividend: CM

MYSURU: CM Siddaramaiah on Monday dismissed the BJP's Dharmasthala yatra as a "political gimmick", saying it will not yield any political dividend for the party. Speaking to reporters in his village Siddaramanahundi, Siddaramaiah asked why BJP did not organise a yatra when the Special Investigation Team (SIT) probe was announced and accused the opposition party of resorting to "opportunistic" campaigns. He criticised BJP's Chamundi Chalo Yatra, which he said is aimed at "strengthening Hindus". BJP is planning the Chamundi Yatra to protest against the state government's invitation to International Booker Prize winner Banu Mushtaq to inaugurate this year's Mysuru Dasara. "I am also a Hindu. I have built a Sri Rama temple in my village. Hindus are known for human qualities — not for lying, inhuman acts or propaganda," he said.

HC allows trial against Hyd-based key conspirator in Valmiki corpn scam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday dismissed the petition of the prime accused in Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribe Development Corporation scam questioning the chargesheet against him.

G Satyanarayana Varma, a civil contractor from Hyderabad, is in judicial custody. The Criminal Investigation Department (CID) had filed the chargesheet against him along with others in the multi-crore scam.

This is the second round of proceedings in which the HC has declined to interfere with the trial. Earlier, on June 12, 2025, a coordinate bench of the court dismissed the petition filed by Varma questioning his arrest on June 11, 2024, as illegal and consequently seeking his release from judicial custody.

It was alleged that about Rs 90 crore was fraudulently transferred to accounts opened in the names of fictitious business entities, to which Varma has helped. The further allegation is that he has received part of the money through accused No. 3 in the form of cash and gold, besides conspiring with other accused.

The police have unearthed Rs 8 crore in cash and about 15 kilograms of gold from Varma's residence. Seeking dismissal of the petition, Additional State Public Prosecutor BN Jagadeesha argued that Varma is a key conspirator of large-scale misappropriation of funds of the corporation, which runs to the tune of Rs 188 crore. The grounds taken in this petition were also the same grounds in the petition filed earlier, which was rejected. There are no changed circumstances to file a fresh petition, and hence the petition is not maintainable, he argued.

Justice M Nagaprasanna noted that the petitioner wants to resurrect substantially the same grounds interlaced with a plea of quashment of proceedings. This is clearly impermissible in law. To permit otherwise would be putting a premium on fragmented litigation and reducing the judicial process to a stratagem for delay. Grounds that were manifestly available at the time of the first petition cannot be exhumed later to prop up a second petition, the court added.

BJP calls for Bhovi corporation chairman's arrest for corruption

BENGALURU: Bhovi community leader Dr Venkatesh Mourya on Monday alleged corruption in the land allotment scheme by Karnataka Bhovi Development Corporation chairman S Ravikumar. Mourya is the BJP SC Morcha national executive committee member and Tamil Nadu in-charge. Addressing a press meet, he released a video in which a woman, said to be a broker, having a conversation allegedly with Ravikumar on the percentage of the bribe to be given by the beneficiaries of which a share to be given to a minister. It was a sting operation done on Ravikumar a week ago, he said. "Ravikumar is from the same community. He has sought 60% commission. He should be dismissed, arrested and a clean hand should be appointed as chairman of the corporation," he urged. "The Congress spent the ST Corporation scam money on the Telangana Assembly polls and eventually the minister concerned, B Nagendra, was removed from the cabinet. Is DCM DK Shivakumar raising funds through Ravikumar to fund the party in Bihar," he questioned. He admitted that Rs 85 crore in the corporation was allegedly misappropriated during the previous BJP government headed by Basavaraj Bommai during 2022-23, but questioned why the investigation remained incomplete. Leader of Opposition R Ashoka, too, raised the corruption charges in a post on 'X'. Each year, Rs 15,000 crore of the SCSP/TSP funds, which were supposed to be used for the development of the SCs, was transferred elsewhere, causing injustice to the Dalits, he wrote. CM Siddaramaiah admitted to the corruption in Valmiki Development Corporation in the House. The CM should quit, he demanded.

Now Cong plans own yatre to Dharmasthala

ENS @ Mysuru

RESPONDING to BJP and JDS leaders visiting Dharmasthala to express solidarity with Dharmadhikari Veerendra Heggade and allegedly drawing political mileage from it, the Mysuru District Congress has now decided to organise its own Dharmasthala Yatre. The ruling party, which had initially kept away from the religious centre after setting up an SIT to probe the mass burial case, reportedly aims to send a message that it is not opposed to Hindu religious institutions.

The Congress has planned a large-scale visit even as the SIT investigation into the mass rape and murder case is still under way and its final report is yet to be submitted. As part of its plan, over 2,000 Congress leaders and workers, led by Chamaraja MLA K Harish Gowda, will visit Dharmasthala under the banner of 'Shanthi Yatre' on September 3. City Congress Committee (Chamaraja segment) president Ravi Manchegowdanakoppalu told reporters on Monday that around 30 buses and several private vehicles will ferry the participants to the Dharmasthala temple to extend support to the Dharmadhikari.

"Dharmasthala is a holy shrine with a history of over 800 years. Devotees from across the country go there to seek blessings. Recently, derogatory remarks made by some YouTubers which hurt the religious sentiments of devotees. The Dharmadhikari has already welcomed the SIT probe initiated by the government. To express our support, we are undertaking this visit," Ravi said.

The 'Shanthi Yatre' will begin on Wednesday morning from Kote Anjaneya Swamy temple near Mysuru Palace. On Thursday, participants will hold a padayatra from the Dharmasthala welcome arch to the temple, before meeting Heggade to convey their support.

"While BJP and JDS are visiting Dharmasthala for vote bank politics, our intention is to show that the Congress stands in favour of dharma," Ravi claimed.

GOVT TO HIRE HELICOPTER ON CONTRACT BASIS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said on Monday that the state government has decided to hire a chopper on a contract basis for ministers and other VVIPs.

Addressing reporters here, he said that a proposal in this regard has been pending before the government for several years. CM Siddaramaiah had asked him to take a decision on inviting tenders for the same. "I have directed the officials to look into the system in this regard in other states," he added. Sources in the government said helicopters and special jets are now being hired on an hourly basis. At the meeting, it was decided to invite tenders to hire a chopper on a contract basis instead of hourly basis, they added.

At present, the government rents helicopters and planes at a cost of Rs 1 lakh per hour for ministers to tour the state. For Delhi visits, they mostly use commercial flights. The government now wants their travel to be more comfortable.

Experts have suggested that it would be better for Karnataka to buy its own chopper for around Rs 80 crore or a jet for around Rs 150 crore, as had been done by the Gujarat government, which purchased a Bombardier Challenger 650 aircraft for around Rs 190 crore six years ago. UP has Super King Air B

250 aircraft and a few choppers, Haryana recently purchased an aircraft for Rs 80 crore.

Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneeesh said, "The Monday's meeting discussed only about hiring a chopper under the KTPP Act and not about purchasing an aircraft."

Another officer of the rank of secretary to the state government said, "The meeting was more about safety, transparency and security of VVIPs. As a nation, we have lost many VVIPs in air accidents. The Monday's meeting discussed steps for better safety of VVIPs by ensuring all safety protocols."

Over a decade ago, the state purchased a sleek Eurocopter Dauphin N3. It gathered more dust than airtime and was quietly sold a few years later.

Capt Arvind Sharma said, "If we don't use a chopper for about 25 hours a month, it doesn't make any sense to buy one. It may be less burdensome to take a chopper on rent. The challenge is not in acquisition, but in maintenance. During the 90s and early 2000, Karnataka owned a Dauphin chopper. But the chopper suffered damage when it was at HAL airport. I personally think owning a jet doesn't make sense when there are more than 20 daily flights to New Delhi." Supporters of the proposal argue that it is about efficiency and safety. A state-owned helicopter could help ministers reach flood-hit or drought-hit areas swiftly. With 31 districts and rugged terrain, the case for faster mobility is strong. But the Opposition is not buying it. Leader of the Opposition in the Council Chalavadi Narayanaswami quipped, "In a state where people are struggling for basic amenities, should we give priority to netas' air travel?"

TDB BACKTRACKS ON SABARIMALA ISSUE IN SC

Says will explore options to convince SC on rituals and customs

M S VIDYANANDAN @ T'Puram

INDICATING a difference of opinion with the Kerala government on the issue of entry of women at Sabarimala, the Travancore Devaswom Board (TDB) has said it would explore all possibilities to convince the Supreme Court of the customs and practices at the age-old shrine.

"We will consult legal experts on convincing the apex court on the customs and practices at Sabarimala," TDB president P S Prasanth told reporters on Monday when asked whether the board had failed to impress upon the SC the traditions and rituals at the hill shrine before the court ruled in favour of entry of women in the age group of 10 to 50.

Prasanth, however, refused to give a specific reply to a question on whether a fresh affidavit would be filed in the court, as demanded by the BJP.

Global Ayyappa meet

Prasanth said union ministers and chief ministers of all south Indian states in addition to Maharashtra and Goa have been invited for the meet. Devaswom ministers of all south Indian states too have been invited. The virtual queue portal is also open for online registrations from overseas delegates.

A total of 3,000 delegates will participate in the meet, of which 800 would be from Kerala, 500 from Tamil Nadu, 250 from Karnataka, 750 from Andhra Pradesh and Telangana, 200 from other states and 500 from overseas.

KPCL issues flood alert along banks of Kali

Bengaluru: In Karnataka Power Corporation Limited (KPCL) has issued the third and final flood warning to those living downstream of the Supa reservoir under the Kali River Project (Phase 1) in view of release of water from the dam following heavy inflow. Catchment areas have been receiving heavy rain, resulting in an increased inflow into the reservoir, according to a statement. Due to persistent rain in the catchment areas, the water level in the reservoir has increased due to heavy inflow. The maximum level is 564 metres with a storage capacity of 147.55 tmcft. The water level in the reservoir was 558.87 metres on Monday. The storage level was 126.345 tmcft, which accounted for 85.63% of the dam's storage capacity, the statement said. KPCL officials said the inflow into the reservoir was 21,261 cusecs. "If this inflow continues, the water level in the reservoir will soon touch the maximum level. Therefore, for safety of the reservoir, excess water will be released anytime. This may cause floods downstream of the Kali. People residing along the banks of the Kali and downstream of the reservoir have been advised to move to safer places. Places downstream of the reservoir include Dandeli and other tourist spots, known for water sports. Ankola, Karwar, Honnavar and Kumta taluks are likely to be affected. The state government has cautioned people, especially tourists, not to participate in adventure water sports, boating and fishing in the river till the rain recedes.

No place for burial: Upa Lokayukta takes up case against officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TREATING the August 29 TNIE report titled 'No place to bury the dead, an islet the final resting place' as a source report, Upa Lokayukta Justice KN Phaneendra on Monday registered a suo motu case against tahsildar Noorul Huda of NR Pura taluk, and Santosh, Panchayat Development Officer of Ravuru Camp in Chikkamagaluru district, and sought their detailed explanation.

EXPRESS IMPACT

Making both respondents to the case, Justice Phaneendra marked a copy of the case to the Deputy Commissioner and Chief Executive Officer of Chikkamagaluru Zilla Panchayat for remedial measures, and to submit the action taken report by October 4.

The TNIE report highlighted that around 150 families of the Shillekyatha fishing community (Scheduled Caste) living at Menasuru Ravuru Camp in NR Pura taluk, have no place to bury the dead.

Deprived of a burial ground, though they have been living in the camp near the backwaters of the Bhadra river for nearly two decades, these community members are forced to bury their dead on an islet a few kilometres from their camp.

The body of an aged man, who died recently, was taken to the islet on a coracle for the last rites.

Justice Phaneendra quoted various judgments of the apex court on ensuring dignity and respect to departed souls in performing final rites. He also quoted a high court order, which directed the state government to take steps to provide burial grounds to all villages and towns.

As per this order, it is the duty and responsibility of the authorities to provide a burial ground to the Shillekyata community, and amounts to dereliction of duty, and has to be considered maladministration under Section 2(10) of the Karnataka Lokayukta Act. A copy of the order was also sent to Chikkamagaluru district minister KJ George.

SC upholds TG's domicile rule for medical seats

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

THE Supreme Court upheld Telangana's rules on domicile quota in medical admissions, setting aside a state high court ruling that had relaxed the requirement.

A two-judge bench comprising Chief Justice of India BR Gavai and Justice K Vinod Chandran allowed the appeals filed by the state government and Kaloji Narayana Rao University of Health Sciences. The court upheld the Telangana Medical and Dental Colleges Admission Rules, 2017, which mandate that a candidate must have studied in the state for four consecutive years to qualify as a "local candidate" for MBBS and BDS admissions.

Rejecting court's interpretation, the apex court held that the rule requiring four years of study or residence in Telangana is not exclusionary, arbitrary, or unconstitutional.

Man stranded in Saveri river for 24 hrs rescued

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Malkangiri

A CRPF helicopter came to the rescue of a 45-year-old man who was stranded in the middle of Saveri river for nearly 24 hours after his boat capsized on Sunday afternoon. The man, Irma Sodi of Katamateru village in Podia block of Malkangiri district, was airlifted to safety on Monday.

Sodi had reportedly gone to Sukma in neighbouring Chhattisgarh by crossing the swollen Saveri river on a country boat on Sunday morning. While returning, his boat capsized due to strong currents in the river at about 2 pm. Despite the strong currents, Sodi held on to the branch of a submerged tree amid the surging water level of the river due to heavy rainfall. Subsequently, he managed to climb on to a nearby rock in the middle of the river.

On Monday morning, local villagers spotted Sodi stranded mid-river and alerted the local police. Later, the fire services personnel were informed.

District fire officer Kamal Lochan Gouda said, "We received information about the stranded person from the sarpanch of Matapaka at about 8 am. A 10-member rescue team from Podia and Malkangiri rushed to the river for rescue operation. However, we could not rescue the man despite our best efforts due to the presence of large rocks in the middle of the river."

Later, the CRPF deployed in Chhattisgarh on the other side of the river were informed. Immediately, a CRPF helicopter from Jagdalpur reached the site and lifted the stranded villager to safety by using a rope. After being airlifted, Sodi was flown to Sukma and taken to the local hospital for primary health checkup. His condition is stated to be stable and he is likely to return to his native village soon, Gouda added.

Sources said Sodi and other villagers regularly visit Sukma in Chhattisgarh by crossing Saveri river on boat for marketing purposes.

Tamil Nadu inks MoU worth ₹3,201cr with German companies

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ CHENNAI

TAMIL Nadu has attracted fresh investment commitments worth ₹3,201 crore during Chief Minister M K Stalin's visit to Germany as part of his week-long trip to Europe on Monday, underscoring the state's commitment to bolster its position as a hub for advanced engineering, clean energy, and mobility manufacturing. The CM also held talks with senior executives of BMW Group in Munich, exploring prospects for expansion of the company's footprint in Tamil Nadu's automotive sector.

Three German companies - Knorr-Bremse, Nordex Group and ebm-papst - signed memoranda of understanding in Düsseldorf for projects that are expected to create about 6,250 jobs. Chief Minister M K Stalin said that the MoUs signed with the German firms, along with meaningful engagement with BMW leaders, reflect the world's growing confidence in the state. "Tamil Nadu moves ahead as a centre of excellence, carrying strength, vision and the promise of shaping the global industry," he said. Alongside the signing of MoUs, Stalin also held talks with senior executives of BMW Group in Munich, exploring prospects for expansion in Tamil Nadu's automotive sector, particularly in electric vehicles. BMW already runs an automotive component facility in Chengalpattu district. The investment push is part of Tamil Nadu's ambitious target to become a trillion-dollar economy by 2030.

EDITORIAL

"I firmly believe it is essential for the peoples of India and China to walk together on the world stage in order to make this a truly Asian century

Pranab Mukherjee

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

— Ramnath Goenka

CHINA MUST EARN INDIA'S TRUST, NOT MERELY MENTION IT

THE bilateral meeting between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping, held on the sidelines of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation summit in Tianjin, marked a rare moment of diplomatic realism and strategic recalibration between two Asian giants navigating an increasingly fractured global order. At a time when the US is weaponising trade, evident in the recent 50 percent tariffs on key Indian exports, India and China have signalled the intent to decouple their bilateral trajectory from third-party pressures. Both Modi and Xi emphasised "strategic autonomy", a phrase that, in this context, served as a rejection of the zero-sum geopolitics shaping today's multi-polar world. Modi's assertion that India-China relations "must be grounded in mutual trust, respect, and sensitivity" and "not viewed through the lens of a third country" was timely and pointed. Xi's metaphor that "the dragon and the elephant must come together" framed the ties in civilisational terms, but did not shy away from contemporary imperatives.

Substantively, the meeting tackled two core tensions: terrorism and trade. Modi highlighted cross-border terrorism as a priority, drawing attention to the shared vulnerability both countries face. Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri's statement that China has shown "understanding and cooperation" is a welcome, if cautiously optimistic signal, particularly given Pakistan's presence in the SCO and Beijing's complex ties with Islamabad. The second area of friction, trade, saw both leaders acknowledge the pressing need to address India's ballooning deficit with China. Misri was forthright in recognising that narrowing this gap "will contribute to a change in perception in the relationship". The agreement to deepen trade and investment while boosting policy predictability and direct flights adds a layer of economic practicality to the diplomatic symbolism.

Importantly, both leaders reaffirmed that they are "partners, not rivals". With global supply chains rattled, and the Global South seeking a stronger voice, India and China, despite deep-rooted differences, seem aware that durable cooperation serves their national and regional interests. Yet, trust must be earned, not merely declared. Peace on the border remains a precondition for any lasting breakthrough. Resumption of the Kailash Mansarovar Yatra and direct flights are steps towards rebuilding people-to-people trust. This meeting may not transform the relationship overnight, but it has helped place it back on a more constructive—albeit cautiously optimistic—forward-looking path.

SHUTTLERS PUT UP FIGHT, HAVE A LONG WAY TO GO

AFTER being in the wilderness for almost all season, the Indian shuttlers breathed fresh life into their game in the last seven days or so, offering new hope ahead of the marquee continental event—the Asian Games—next year. After missing out on a medal at the Olympics and struggling in both singles and doubles at top BWF Tour events, India finally managed to win a medal at the BWF World Championships in Paris last week. Once again, it was the versatile duo of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty who showed why they are still India's best.

P V Sindhu displayed compelling signs of retracing her old steps even while falling short of a historic sixth world championship medal. However, it was enough to show that even at 30 she can bring her big-game mentality to the elite level. Her game against World No 2 Wang Zhi Yi had glimpses of the vintage Sindhu. However, it is a big concern that she was the only Indian representative in women's singles. Another spark was the mixed doubles combination of Dhruv Kapila and Tanisha Crasto, making their championship debut, who narrowly missed out on a medal. The fact that the duo came close to challenging a podium finish could act as a springboard for better results.

In the end, it was Satwik and Chirag who shone the brightest during the championships with some mind-bending tricks and flicks. What can be termed poetic is that at the very venue where they crashed out in the Olympics quarterfinals—the Adidas Arena—they avenged their defeat against A Chia and W Y Soh. Yet, they were no match for the Chinese duo of Y Liu and B Chen. The form of Lakshya Sen is a worrying factor. This time, India's top singles player's game lasted just 54 minutes against World No 1 Shi Yu Qi, who went on to win the title.

Despite the signs of improvement, what would bother India is their lack of bench strength. No young, up-and-coming player is even close to the level Sindhu was at that stage of her career. India will be hosting the world championships next year. For the game to grow, the nation needs results and new heroes. As of now, that seems elusive.

QUICK TAKE

GILDED AGE 2.0

WHITE House trade advisor Peter Navarro's remark about 'Brahmins' profiteering in India off Russian oil exposes at least two things. This, coming not long after he called India a 'laundromat for the Kremlin', shows that the motormouth has taken up the job of taunting India with unkind cuts. It also shows the 19th-century mindset of some in Trump's inner circle. The reference to 'Brahmins' harkens to the Boston Brahmins, early colonisers in the New World who made money from their links with the Old World and looked unkindly down the immigration ladder. Combine this with the recent goldening of the White House—covering every trimming with gilt—that has been noted by many, and we have another decadent Gilded Age of America. The joke is on the US, not us.

China formally embedded information warfare in its military doctrine decades ago. Learning from the recent past, India needs a whole-nation approach to wield messaging as a force multiplier

WARS are no longer fought only on land, at sea, or in the air. They are also fought in the invisible domain of information—where speed, precision and narrative shape outcomes even before a shot is fired. This has triggered a subtler, equally potent dimension: deterrence by information. A nation well-networked, agile in managing narratives, and proficient in handling information can create such a perception of dominance that adversaries hesitate to act.

The 1991 Gulf War was a revelation. The US stunned the world by fusing space-based intelligence, precision-guided munitions, real-time surveillance and live command networks into a seamless war machine. Iraqi forces were paralysed not only by physical destruction, but also by the overwhelming information superiority of the coalition forces. For the first time, 'embedded journalism' was relayed from the heart of the battlefield.

China was the keenest observer. It saw not just advanced weapons, but the systemic integration of sensors, shooters and decision-makers into a cohesive information grid. This was not a traditional war—it was warfare under informationised conditions. By 1993, the Chinese People's Liberation Army enshrined this as a doctrine. By 2003, it progressed to the innovation of the 'Three Warfares'—media, psychological and legal.

Media warfare meant controlling domestic and international narratives, influencing how conflicts were reported and shaping global perception of legitimacy. Chinese state media used these as strategic weapons. Psychological warfare was about sowing doubt, fear or hesitation in adversaries; while bolstering confidence of the allied audiences. Legal warfare created justifications for territorial claims and delegitimised adversary positions.

Crucially, China never saw these domains as separate from military power. Instead, as complementing the traditional force, and preparing the ground for kinetic operations. The effectiveness of China's approach became visible during regional confrontations. In Doklam (2017), and more starkly during the Galwan standoff and broader Ladakh tensions in 2020, the PLA demonstrated tight control over strategic communication—a deliberate media blackout, carefully curated leaks, and a disciplined silence.

Pakistan, too, has long understood the role of information in conflict. As early as 1949, it established the Inter-Services Public Relations, recognising information as a weapon system. Over decades, ISPR has evolved into a formidable narrative machine, blending military messaging with media engagement and international outreach. In 2025, during Operation Sindoor, Pakistan attempted to showcase its narrative-management capabilities following the Chinese template.

Rivals, not necessarily adversaries, may employ information offensively when it suits their strategic purpose. The current downturn in India-US relations is a case in point. Donald Trump's repeated claims that India is "profiteering" from discounted Russian oil, or that the Indian economy is "dead" are targeted messages intended to shape global perception and pressurise India. Trump's advisor Peter Navarro even called the Ukraine conflict "Modi's war". More recently, Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent dismissed the rupee's potential as a reserve currency. The idea here is to create narratives that deter India's strategic choices. It underlines that information dominance is not only a weapon of adversaries, but can be used by friends and partners, too.

For India, the challenge has been both doctrinal and structural. The Shimla Agreement of 1972, to which India adheres strictly, insists that the issue of J&K must be resolved bilaterally. In theory, this has moral strength. In practice, it has limited India's ability to internationalise its narrative, while Pakistan has worked relentlessly to globalise its propaganda.

Pakistan has, for decades, flooded international forums, think tanks, media houses and diaspora networks with narratives of victimhood, delegitimising India's position. Meanwhile, India's engagement has often been cautious, episodic and reactive. This gap becomes glaring in moments of crisis, especially after terrorist attacks orchestrated by Pakistani state or proxy actors, when India's counter-narratives lack prior institutional groundwork. The issue is one of reach. Without a scaffolding of sustained narrative presence, truth will struggle to compete with propaganda.

What then does 'deterrence by information' mean for India? It means transforming the way we view, prepare for and fight in the information domain. It requires embedding information as a core element of national security strategy, rather than as an afterthought. Always, the narrative must precede the event.

Our missions abroad must become informationised hubs. Diplomats cannot merely issue statements—they must be equipped with dedicated-communication specialists, real-time fact-checking cells and AI-driven engagement strategies. Each mission abroad should be capable of instantly countering Pakistani propaganda, proactively pushing India's case. This is especially necessary in West Asia and India's immediate neighbourhood.

Deterrence by information demands a whole-of-nation approach. Government, military, academia, media and the Indian diaspora must act in concert. Narratives are most effective when they echo across different channels, reinforcing each other. India must embrace technological leverage. AI, big data and digital monitoring tools can identify hostile narratives early, enabling rapid, credible responses. Strategic communication must be as technologically advanced as cyber warfare.

When adversaries recognise that their attempts at information dominance will not only be countered, but overwhelmed, hesitation sets in. When they see that our narrative dominance garners more international support, provocation will be considered with deep care. This is the essence of deterrence by information.

Information is not just an adjunct to warfare, but is a frontline. We may have delayed our understanding of this over the years due to lack of institutional realisation. It does not replace military power but amplifies it, ensuring that truth, credibility and narrative control serve as force multipliers.

India must reimagine its embassies, empower its institutions, and unify its voices to create a seamless information shield. No better way than by taking diverse domains on board, and adopting an institutional approach to information. Nations that command the narrative will, in future, command the battlefield itself. And deterrence will not belong to those with the biggest weapons, but to those who wield the most powerful information.

THE MANY SHADES OF PATRIOTISM

C P SURENDRAN

Poet, novelist and screenplay writer whose latest novel is One Love and the Many Lives of Osip B

SOME years ago, I was briefly in the Netherlands. The taxi from the airport was a faded green Mercedes. The driver, in a suit and skull cap, was a burly man with a white, flowing beard. He turned out to be a Pakistani and hummed a Dilip Kumar-Vyjayanthimala song: "Teri husn ki kya tareef karun." He said he was happy—happier than he had ever been in Pakistan. He had been in his adopted country for 22 years and had no intention of going back to the land he once loved enough to flee. He was content to prefer the Netherlands because, as he put it, his two children's education was free, he had community housing, the state covered his medical bills, and, when he retired, he would be the state's responsibility. "Why would I not love this country?" he asked.

In his latest work, Why the Poor Don't Kill Us, Manu Joseph fixes in his crosshairs the latent psychological contract that sustains inequality—an unspoken pact in which the marginalised refrain from revolt, thereby protecting the privileged. He examines how the fragile order of the privileged is not built on justice but on tacit understandings and carefully staged illusions. The poor, he argues, abide by this unwritten contract, suppressing anger and rebellion—at great moral cost. The question he poses is not 'why they don't rise up', but 'what keeps the oppressive structure intact?'

To my mind, it's the idea of life's insignificance—a very Indian instinct. From birth, we are told this life is secondary to the one after. The here-and-now cannot be helped. You could call it tolerance, or a resignation so deep it borders on a quiet despair. We call it 'fate'. And who can fight fate?

To get the perspective right on the fate of being an Indian, we must invert the patriotic cliché. The question should not be what you have done for your country, but what your country has done for you. One lives for oneself first, then for one's family. The country is only a means to safeguard these two objectives.

Migration is India's truest referendum. According to UN data, over 18 million Indians live abroad—the largest diaspora in the world. Every year, nearly 750,000 Indians give up their citizenship to become Americans, Canadians, Australians, or Europeans. What does this really mean? Surely, it points to the State's failure to care for its people. If India were a corporation, its shareholders would have long sold their stock.

Even for the well-to-do, 'loving' the country becomes problematic the moment they step outdoors. Delhi's Air Quality Index last winter crossed 500—the scale's upper limit; anything above 300 is hazardous. Mumbai's AQI hovers around 200 on most days. Compare this with London, where the average AQI is 35, or New York, at around 45. Breathing here is a form of dying. Why on Earth should anyone love such killing cities? It is a kind of abuse of the self.

AP

> If migration is a referendum on our patriotism, consider that at over 18 million, Indians form the largest diaspora in the world. The true measure is not how large the economy is, but how anxiety-free and pollution-free each citizen can be

Every political party, Right or Left, scrambles to establish its love for India. Prime Minister Narendra Modi leads the chorus on the Right. On the Left, Rahul Gandhi never misses a chance to wave the Constitution like an exorcist brandishing the Bible at the devil. Night after night, TV channels go into spasms of patriotic fervour. One recurring chorus is that India is "poised to become" the world's third-largest economy. But this is a paradoxical achievement, because the pervasiveness of poverty is everywhere. The Netherlands is the 17th largest economy in the world, yet its happiness ranking is fifth. The size of the economy represents little to the poor. A few billionaires getting richer means little to the countless Indians who live scrounging about on the fringe. Which is why there should be room to be neutral about one's country—unless there is an emergency, say, a war.

It is not for India that we must fight, but for Indians. What is a land without its people? The true question is not whether we are the second, third, or fourth largest economy, but how secure and anxiety-free the citizen is. As of 2025, India's nominal GDP per capita is approximately $2,878, ranking 136th globally out of 189 countries. And the Indian citizen is among the least prized of nationalities. India ranks 77th globally in the Henley Passport Index 2025. Surely you would want to 'love' a passport that guarantees no long clearance lines at international airports?

As jingoism becomes fashionable, freedom to dissent from the manufactured mainstream grows dangerous. At no point in post-independence history—except perhaps during the Emergency—have more Indians been charged with sedition. Between 2014 and 2020, there were 399 cases under Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code (Section 152 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita). The rechristening itself might be read as another ritualistic display of patriotism. But the arbitrariness of its use is clear from the conviction rate, less than 10 convicted.

Citizenship is an accident. You did not choose to be born in a particular country, or into a religion, or under a god. Yet it is on behalf of these accidents that people fight, kill, and die. More people live and die for fiction than for fact. Perhaps these fictions, these narratives, are necessary because they give us identity. But why must one 'love' an accident—the accident of the country of birth. If one must relate to it, warts and all, why not 'like' it without being forced to love it?

'India should exit Quad, normalise ties with China'

Country's safety lies in BRICS & UN Charter; de-dollarisation is not only credible, it is happening, says leading public intellectial Jeffrey Sachs of Columbia univ

PROF Jeffrey Sachs is one of the world's most respected economists and public intellectuals known for tackling complex global challenges from debt crises and hyperinflation to public health, poverty, and climate change. A former advisor to three UN Secretaries-General, Sachs is University Professor and Director of the Center for Sustainable Development at Columbia University. He is also president of the UN Sustainable Development Solutions Network and host of the influential Book Club with Jeffrey Sachs. A bestselling author, Sachs is known for his fearless takes of US foreign and trade policy. In an interview with Jayanth Jacob, Sachs warns that Donald Trump's tariff-driven trade wars are unconstitutional, economically damaging, and geopolitically reckless. Excerpts:

How do you assess Trump's increasing use of tariffs as a political and economic weapon? What it means for the world & India?
Trump's resort to tariffs is illegal under the US Constitution (which gives Congress, not the President, the right to set tariffs, under Article I Section 8). There tariffs may still be struck down by the US courts. The Trump tariff policy will seriously harm the US economy by making it less competitive, thereby stifling US exports. It is already harming the multilateral system by undermining the core principles of the World Trade Organization. The only indirect advantage is that Trump is showing the world that the US government has become a lawless and disreputable political system: corrupt, illogical, and untrustworthy.

With the US increasingly deploying secondary sanctions, is India getting more and more vulnerable?
India's safety lies in the BRICS and the UN Charter, not in the US. India should diversify its export destinations, work with the BRICS on non-dollar payments systems, and leave the QUAD, which is a major disadvantage for India's security. India and China should normalise relations.

Do you see any realistic pathway where India and China could find common economic or geopolitical ground despite deep border tensions, within forums like BRICS or the SCO and bilaterally?
India and China constitute nearly 40% of the world population, and both have a common interest in ending Western delusions of running the world according to Western double standards. India and China should solve the long-standing border issues and China should strongly support India to become the 6th permanent member of the UN Security Council. The world, including China, will benefit enormously from India becoming a permanent member of the UN Security Council.

Trump has often spoken critically of global multilateral groups. Do you think his fear toward a rising BRICS bloc is justified in terms of real threat to US global primacy?
Yes. The BRICS is an affront to US primacy, which is an outmoded and failed concept. We don't live any longer in the world of Western hegemony. The US should understand that those days are over. The BRICS are important for creating a multilateral world based on the rule of law under the UN Charter rather than on the whims of the British or US empires.

Is de-dollarisation a credible threat in the medium term, particularly if BRICS nations ramp up efforts to create a shared currency or settle trade in local currencies?
Yes, de-dollarisation is not only credible; it is happening. In 10 years, the dollar will play a much smaller role in international trade, payments, settlements, and financing. The BRICS should indeed speed this process because the US has gravely misused the dollar as a weapon of US foreign policy. This was and is a serious mistake of US foreign policy.

Much has been said about the U.S.-India relationship being the most defining of the 21st century. Do you believe this holds true under Trump?
No. The China-India-African Union relation will be the most important relations. The three giants need to cooperate closely to build a just, sustainable, inclusive, and secure world. The US is just 4.1 percent of the world population, and around 14 percent of the world economy. For India, the US is just one more counterpart, but not the most important.

How realistic is the "China+1" strategy in buildingresilient supply chains centered around India, especially given India's infrastructural and regulatory hurdles?
The US government will never allow India to replace China in the US value chains. The US is openly protectionist, and if India's exports to the US rise significantly, the US will stop it, just as it has stopped China's exports. Indeed, this is already the lesson of the US 50% tariffs.

In what specific ways do you think Trump, might continue undermining the post-WWII liberal international order? Or do you think that order is already crumbling?
There is no liberal international order. That is just a glib slogan of the US-dominated world, where US domination is based on 800 overseas military bases, CIA-led regime- change operations, unilateral sanctions, weaponization of the dollar, US complicity in genocide in Gaza, and many other profound abuses of power. US power is waning and we have already arrived at a multipolar world, with India, China, Russia, and the US all being great powers. What we need in addition is a truly multilateral world, operating under the UN Charter, and with important reforms of the UN, including India's role as permanent member of the UN Security Council.

Could new rounds of trade wars under Trump, especially with China backfire domestically by inflating costs ?
Yes, but not quickly. The cost of the trade wars will probably be to weaken the US economy over a period of 5-10 years. The US is also abandoning its role in the global energy transition, for example renewable energy and electric vehicles.

As India balances strategic autonomy with US ties, how might Trump's "America First" posture complicate or this? And you think personal chemistry between PM Modi and President Trump will be of great use?
There is no use of personal chemistry. There is no use for India in an alliance with the US. Soft alliance politics such as the Quad are detrimental to India's foreign policy interests. India should be aiming for close relations with all major powers, including Russia, the US, China, African Union, and European Union, not taking sides with the US in the vain and pernicious US attempt to contain China. The US is wrongly trying to sustain its alleged hegemony. That is not in India's interest, nor should India play into this US vanity and delusion.

SCO backs India on terror, Pahalgam

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

TWO months after India walked out of a Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) defence ministers' statement over its silence on terrorism, the bloc on Monday took a significantly tougher stance. In a rare consensus, the Tianjin Declaration — endorsed by all member states, including Pakistan and China — strongly condemned the April 22 Pahalgam terror attack in Jammu and Kashmir, marking a diplomatic win for New Delhi and a notable shift in the SCO's approach to cross-border terrorism.

The declaration, adopted at the SCO Heads of State Council meeting said,"the Member States strongly condemned the terrorist attack in Pahalgam on 22 April 2025. They expressed their deepest sympathy and condolences to the families of the dead and the wounded. They further stated that perpetrators, organisers and sponsors of such attacks must be brought to justice."

The language closely mirrors India's position, particularly the emphasis on holding not just perpetrators but also sponsors accountable, a long-standing reference to Pakistan-based groups and their alleged state support.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who shared the stage with leaders including Chinese President Xi Jinping, Russian President Vladimir Putin, and Pakistan's Shehbaz Sharif had said in his address.

"We must say clearly and unanimously that no double standards are acceptable on terrorism. This attack was an open challenge to every country and person who believes in humanity... It is natural to raise the question whether the open support of terrorism by some countries can be acceptable to us."

While Pakistan was not named in the declaration or in Modi's speech, its endorsement of the statement is diplomatically significant particularly after India's Defence Minister Rajnath Singh had refused to sign a previous SCO communiqué in June that omitted the Pahalgam attack but mentioned terror incidents in Pakistan.

In an apparent bid to maintain balance, the Tianjin Declaration also condemned recent terror attacks within Pakistan, including the Jaffer Express bombing and the Khuzdar attack. It reaffirmed the SCO's commitment to fighting terrorism, separatism, and extremism in all forms and warned against the use of such groups for "mercenary purposes."

The declaration also underscored the "leading role of sovereign States and their competent authorities in countering terrorist and extremist threats."

INDIA JOINS TO CONDEMN US, ISRAELI AIRSTRIKES ON IRAN

India joined fellow SCO member states on Monday in strongly condemning the US and Israeli strikes on Iran in June 2025. The rare consensus—formalised in the Tianjin Declaration—described the attacks as a violation of international law and Iran's sovereignty, and called for the protection of nuclear infrastructure and civilians. This comes two months after India had distanced itself from a similar SCO condemnation over Israeli actions in Iran—a move that had highlighted internal divergences within the Eurasian bloc. Monday's statement, declaration, suggests New Delhi is now aligning more closely with the collective position.

US embassy says 'defining relationship'

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

ON the same day Prime Minister Narendra Modi held a high-profile bilateral meeting with Russian President Vladimir Putin on the sidelines of the SCO Summit in Tianjin, the United States Embassy in New Delhi called the India-US partnership a "defining relationship of the 21st century."

In a post on X, the Embassy shared remarks by U.S. Secretary of State Marco Rubio, originally made earlier this year, highlighting the foundational role of "enduring friendship" in bilateral cooperation.

The embassy post said: "The partnership between the United States and India continues to reach new heights — a defining relationship of the 21st century. This month, we're spotlighting the people, progress, and possibilities driving us forward... from innovation and entrepreneurship to defence and bilateral ties."

India-US military exercise to take place in Alaska

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE ongoing tension between India and the US over American tariffs has not affected military ties, as the armies of the two countries have decided to continue with their scheduled joint exercise, Yudh Abhyas 2025. This series of exercises began in 2004 under the US Army Pacific partnership program.

The Indian Army said in a statement on Monday that over two weeks, troops will rehearse a spectrum of tactical drills, including heliborne operations, employment of surveillance resources and unmanned aerial systems, rock craft, mountain warfare, casualty evacuation, combat medical aid, and the integrated use of artillery, aviation, and electronic warfare systems.

An Indian Army contingent has departed for Fort Wainwright, Alaska, to participate in the 21st edition of the India-USA Joint Military Exercise Yudh Abhyas 2025, scheduled from September 1 to 14, 2025.

Additionally, subject-matter experts from both armies will lead working groups focused on critical areas such as UAS and Counter-UAS operations, information warfare, communications, and logistics. The Indian contingent, consisting of personnel from a battalion of the Madras Regiment, will train alongside soldiers from the 1st Battalion, 5th Infantry Regiment "Bobcats" of the Arctic Wolves Brigade Combat Team, 11th Airborne Division, USA.

Navarro at it again, parties livid over Brahmin remarks

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

WHITE House trade advisor Peter Navarro's "Brahmins profiteering" remark in reference to US President Donald Trump's additional 25 percent tariff on India buying Russian oil has sparked mixed reactions from opposition parties as well as Sanjeev Sanyal, a member of the Prime Minister's Economic Advisory Council.

Congress leader Pawan Khera termed the assertion "baseless", adding, "America should not make baseless statements like this."

Shiv Sena (UBT) MP Priyanka Chaturvedi called Navarro's remarks "shameful" and "sinister", stating that "his meltdown is reaching peak level of senility".

She elaborated further on social media, stating, "Peter Navarro's invocation of a particular caste identity in India to make his point, even if it is to imply the 'privileged lot' vis-à-vis the rest, is shameful and sinister.... The usage of the word Brahmin (yes, elite Boston Brahmins, US context, I am aware) by someone senior in the US Administration cannot come out of the blue in India's context; this was deliberate. So please sit out on explaining this one," she posted on 'X'.

Sanjeev Sanyal said on X, "This latest jibe from Navarro, that 'Brahmins are profiteering' from Russian oil, tells us a lot about who controls narratives about India and Hindus inside the policy/intellectual spaces of America.

CVC talks tough on pending probe, wants CBI to act against its officials

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE Central Vigilance Commission (CVC) has flagged that as many as 60 cases of departmental action are pending against Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) officials and among these, 22 have been pending for more than four years.

In its annual report for the year 2024, the CVC noted that the pendency of the cases against CBI officials reflects on the reputation and image of the country's premier investigation agency.

As of December 31, 2024, 39 departmental cases against Group 'A' officers and 21 cases against Group 'B' and 'C' personnel of the CBI have been pending, it said.

The CVC has the power of superintendence over the CBI in connection with the agency's investigations relating to offences, which are alleged to have been committed under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988.

In the report the anti-graft watchdog also reviewed the progress of cases pending with respective authorities for the want of sanction to prosecute corrupt government officials, as the CBI has reported that at the end of 2024, a total of 200 cases were pending for grant of prosecution sanction under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, which belong to 46 different ministries, departments and affiliated organizations.

In these cases pending with various organisations, 534 requests have been made for granting prosecution sanction, as some of the cases involved more than one accused person, it said. Of the total, 106 cases were pending prosecution sanction for over three months.

It is to be noted that competent authorities are expected to decide on cases of sanction of prosecution within three months and another month can be provided in cases where there is a requirement for consultation with the Attorney General or any law officer in his office.

The CVC, on regular intervals, sends reminders to authorities concerned in the central government departments and organisations to expedite decisions in cases pending for sanction for prosecution beyond the mandatory time limit given in the Act, it said in the report.

It also mentioned that over 1,500 posts were lying vacant in the CBI. "The total sanctioned strength of CBI as on December 31, 2024, was 7,300, against which 5,798 officials were in positions; 1,502 posts were lying vacant," it noted.

The highest of 887 posts in the 'executive ranks" are lying vacant, 503 of 'ministerial staff', 57 of 'technical officers', 48 of 'law officers' and seven of 'canteen staff', the CVC said in the report.

Heritage, culture mapping of 75% villages done

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

AS part of the ambitious Mera Gaon Meri Dharohar (MGMD) programme aimed at preserving and showcasing India's cultural heritage, 75 percent of the villages across the country have been mapped and their cultural profiles uploaded on the dedicated portal. According to the Ministry of Culture, out of 6.5 lakh villages, details of the cultural and heritage of 4.84 lakh villages have been documented.

Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, and Rajasthan have taken the lead in this exercise, accounting for the maximum number of villages mapped so far. In Uttar Pradesh, over 71,000 villages have recorded the highest entries (2,502) from Azamgarh district.

In Madhya Pradesh, Chhindwara is the district with the highest number of villages mapped—2,214 villages—on the MGMD portal, making it the district leader within the state. According to the ministry, profiles of 42,625 villages have been completed in the state. In Barmer district of Rajasthan-- where 39,386 villages have been documented-- 2,903 villages have been profiled.

The National Mission on Cultural Mapping (NMCM) was announced in 2017 to preserve and promote the country's cultural heritage. It is being executed by the Indira Gandhi National Centre for the Arts (IGNCA).

The MGMD portal was launched in June 2023 as part of Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav commemorating and celebrating 75 years of India's independence. The portal features a wide range of cultural elements, including oral traditions, customs, historical significance, art forms, traditional cuisines, prominent artists, traditional dress, and local landmarks. The portal also places special focus on intangible cultural heritage such as linguistic diversity, oral traditions, folklore, fair and local festivals, ensuring representation of tribal regions and marginalised communities.

The 360-degree angle video (walkthrough) of 750 villages has been done and uploaded to the portal. The "Unique Stories" section features a diverse collection of local tales and captivating narratives. It has received more than 2,000 contributions.

To build a comprehensive repository of cultural expressions from villages, the Mission has also started working on thematic publications on Bartan (utensils) and Paridhan (attire). Researchers, writers, museums, and collectors were recently invited to contribute to the compilation.

The issue on Bartan aims to capture the diversity of utensils used across Indian villages, from region-specific cooking implements to ritual objects and explore their making traditions, transformations, usages, and cultural legacies. Contributors are encouraged to focus on unique utensils, their evolution and their continuing role in daily and ceremonial life.

The second publication, Paridhan, will spotlight clothing and ornaments as markers of identity and tradition. It seeks to highlight histories, textile practices, regional dress forms, sustainability aspects, and the role of attire.

● HUGE DRAW AT PATNA RALLY - RAHUL HITS HARD ON BJP OVER 'VOTE THEFT' ● TEJASHWI ACCUSES NITISH OF COPYING HIS POLICIES

AFTER UNITY SHOW, TASK TO KEEP TEMPO ALIVE

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and RJD's Tejashwi Yadav, among others, during a march marking the culmination of 'Vote Adhikar Yatra' in Patna on Monday. | PTI

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

A clear division of role between Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and RJD's Tejashwi Prasad Yadav was evident throughout the Voter Adhikar Yatra that concluded on Monday after covering a distance of nearly 1,300-km distance, 110 assembly constituencies over 25 districts of Bihar.

While Rahul mainly targeted PM Modi and BJP through his 'vote chori' allegations, Tejashwi attacked Bihar CM Nitish Kumar, accusing him of copying his policies. Tejashwi also sought to project himself as CM face of the INDIA bloc, although indirectly.

While Rahul's speeches mainly centred around the alleged 'vote theft', SIR (special intensive revision of electoral rolls) and its implications, Tejashwi raised issues like migration, unemployment, lack of health facilities, substandard education and issues related to farmers. "They have defined their roles. Rahul is a leader of national repute and PM face of the Opposition, Tejashwi has his role in Bihar," said Gangeshwar Sahni, a resident of Muzaffarpur, who came to Patna to participate in the yatra.

The 16-day yatra has given an indication that Opposition alliance will centre around its campaign over alleged 'vote theft' by BJP in collusion with the Election Commission. "Vote chori slogan has become more popular among people who have been left out from the draft electoral rolls published on August 1," said Amit Kumar Yadav, a resident of Madhepura in north Bihar. Amit, 46, who runs a mobile repairing shop in Madhepura, came to Patna to participate in concluding event of the yatra.

Rajendra Das of Bhojpur, a carpenter, said, "For the first time, united face of the Opposition has become evident on ground level. Top INDIA bloc leaders travelled with Rahul in the same vehicle."

Rahul's yatra has given his party a chance to came out of the shadow of RJD to some extent as his initiative has energised the grand old party's rank and file. His vitriolic attack against the Chief Election Commissioner has also created a buzz. "This has increased bargaining power of Congress, and it would demand more number of seats in the elections," a Congress leader said.

However, Ganga Rai, 34, a resident of Maner near Patna, said that Congress has not as much the support base at the booth level as RJD or CPI(M-L) in caste-riddled state like Bihar. "So, the main aim should be dethroning BJP-JD(U) from power," Rai said.

Yatra won't have any impact, says BJP

The BJP on Monday claimed that the Opposition's 'Vote Adhikar Yatra', which concluded with a rally in Patna, is going to have no impact in Bihar as the public has no faith in Rahul Gandhi and his INDIA allies . BJP national spokesperson and Patna Sahib MP Ravi Shankar Prasad stressed that Modi, on the other hand, lives in the hearts of the people.

Registration claims will be considered after Sept 1: SC

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday took note of the Election Commission of India's (ECI) submission that claims and objections regarding the draft electoral rolls can be filed even after the deadline expires on September 1.

The Commission, however, stated that while claims and objections can be filed even after the deadline, they will only be considered after the roll is finalised. Regarding the deadline extension, the court order noted, "The process will continue until the last date of nominations and all inclusions/exclusions are integrated in the final roll."

Following this, the top court did not issue any order to extend the deadline beyond September 1. The two-judge bench of Justices Surya Kant and Joymalya Bagchi was hearing pleas by RJD, CPIM, ADR, and AIMIM seeking a fortnight's extension for filing claims and objections in the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls in Bihar.

The top court also directed the Bihar Legal Service Authority to depute para-legal volunteers to assist individuals and parties in filing their respective claims and objections.

It, however, expressed concern that parties had filed only 120 objections so far. It noted that most parties and voters are filing applications for deletion, not inclusion: 33,351 for inclusion and 1.34 lakh for deletion.

Most applications filed for deletion

The apex court expressed concern that despite all the time provided, the political parties had filed only 120 objections so far. It noted that most parties and voters are filing applications for deletion, not inclusion: 33,351 for inclusion and 1.34 lakh for deletion.

Only 144 applications from political parties: EC

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

AS the month-long window for claims and objections under the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of Bihar's electoral rolls closes on Monday, the Election Commission informed that it has received only 144 applications from political parties, including 16 from the BJP, 10 from the RJD, and 118 from CPI (M-L) against the draft rolls of 7.24 crore electors.

In contrast, the electors filed nearly 2.53 lakh claims and objections for the inclusion of eligible voters and exclusion of ineligible ones, of which 40,630 have already been disposed of, it said.

The 118 applications submitted by the CPI (M-L) included 15 for inclusion and 103 for exclusion, while the BJP filed 16 objections only for exclusion, and the RJD submitted just 10 for inclusion, the poll panel said.

Forms received from new electors on attaining 18 years of age or above, including 45 such requests from Booth Level Agents (BLAs) through Form 6 and Form 6 with declaration stood at 16,56,886, and out of these 91,462 cases have been disposed of so far.

Interestingly, the EC released the data amid severe criticism by the Congress and RJD are against the ongoing SIR exercise, alleging it was designed to disenfranchise voters.

The commission clarified that generic complaints without prescribed forms are not treated as valid claims or objections, and that no claims were filed by persons outside their own Assembly constituency, in line with the provisions of the Representation of the People Act, 1950. The panel said that specific objections can also be filed by non-electors of an Assembly constituency.

ISRO makes Chandrayaan-3 data public

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) on Monday made Chandrayaan-3 data public and issued an Announcement of Opportunity (AO) seeking proposals from the national scientific community (outside ISRO/Department of Space) for scientific analyses and utilisation of data from all the experiments of India's third lunar mission conducted by its lander and rover after recording the country's first touchdown on Moon's surface on August 23, 2023.

The AO is meant to enhance the science outcome of the Chandrayaan-3 mission and strengthen the Indian science community for in-situ studies, using the payload data of the Chandrayaan-3 lander and rover. The AO is open to all faculty and researchers from recognized academia, research institutions, Universities, Colleges and government organizations of India, said ISRO on its website (https://www.isro.gov.in/Ch3_Data_Utilisation_AO.html).

Those interested can access and browse the data from PRADAN portal of the Indian Space Science Data Centre (https://pradan.issdc.gov.in/ch3).

Proposals could be submitted by individuals or a group of scientists and academicians from universities, colleges and national institutions. Only those having a minimum remaining service of four years before superannuation are eligible to lead the project as Principal Investigator (PI). There could be multiple Co-PIs in the proposal, however the PI will be the focal point for all communications related to the proposal.

The proposals must be forwarded through the head of the institutions, with appropriate assurance for providing necessary facilities for carrying out the project under this AO programme, according to ISRO.

The declaration contained in the proposal format must be signed by the PI and head of the institution (Annexure 3). Otherwise, the proposal will not be considered valid and will be rejected.

ISRO said any update or modifications to this AO will be reflected in the revised AO which will be posted on ISRO website– https://www.isro.gov.in – under 'Latest News'. The proposers are requested to check the above URL periodically to keep themselves updated.

Dhankhar moves into INLD leader's farmhouse in Delhi

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

FORMER Vice President of India, 74-year-old Jagdeep Dhankhar, has shifted to a farmhouse owned by prominent Jat leader and senior Indian National Lok Dal (INLD) leader Abhay Chautala in the Gadaipur area of Chhatarpur in South Delhi.

Dhankhar, who has largely stayed out of the public eye since resigning as Vice President on July 21, vacated the official residence near the Parliament House Complex, where he had been staying since April last year, as the September 9 vice-presidential elections draw closer.

He has now shifted to Chautala's farmhouse in Gadaipur DLF Farms, Chhatarpur Enclave, in the national capital. While many of his belongings have been moved there, several household items remain stored in a flat inside the Vice-President's official residence.

Sources close to Chautala said Dhankhar can stay at the farmhouse as long as he wishes, since the Chautala family has close ties with him. He will likely remain there until alternative arrangements are made or he gets a Type-VIII official residence, which he is entitled to as a former Vice-President.

SINGAPORE KEEN ON PARTNERING WITH INDIA IN SPACE SECTOR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

JONATHAN Hung, Executive Director, Office for Space Technology and Industry, Singapore, on Monday said Singapore was keen to partner with Indian space agencies – government and private including INSPACe, ISRO and start-ups – on developing and promoting the space sector in their country.

He said the space sector in Singapore is young compared to other countries, including India. They are keen on acquiring and processing data based on their specific requirements in various sectors including maritime, climate change, sea level rise, smart agriculture and weather management. Hung added that they were keen to explore the Indian ecospace sector together and commercialise on research and development.

Speaking at the round table on "Leveraging Satellite Data For National Security", organised by Synergia Foundation, Hung said there are a lot of similarities between South India and Singapore in terms of geographical conditions, weather, oceans and climatic conditions, and they were thus looking for data sharing in multiple sectors.

Also present on the occasion, former ISRO Chairman, AS Kiran Kumar said, the space sector is rapidly changing and there is a lot of opportunities to explore. Many private companies are now working in the space sector.

Pertaining to the data management, Kumar said the advent of latest technology in filtering data, has its own advantages and disadvantages, which is not limited to Singapore but to India also. While a lot of time is spent in processing and analysing data, much of the information is filtered, which should not be ignored. Availability of data is important for all, and more so for the South East Asian countries, which have a lot of problems.

Air Marshal R Radhish (Retd), former Air-Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Training Command, IAF, pointed out that while other countries including US and Pakistan had space policies, available in the public domain, India did not. He said, India has announced many space missions for the coming years including the Chandrayaan, Gaganyaan and the Bharatiya Antariksh Station, but there is no policy document. A lot of work also needs to be done in representing India on the global platforms pertaining to the space sector, he added.

State suffered loss of over ₹3,056 crore

Himachal Pradesh Chief Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu announced on Monday that the total losses suffered exceed a staggering ₹3,056 crore. Blaming climate change for the disaster, he invoked the Disaster Management Act and sought a special Central government package.

FOLLOWING extensive damage caused by cloudbursts, flash floods, and landslides, the Himachal Pradesh government has declared the state disaster-affected. Chief Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu announced on Monday that total losses exceed ₹3,056 crore.

He said the natural calamities have severely impacted roads, bridges, power lines and water supply schemes. Blaming climate change for the disaster, he invoked the Disaster Management Act, sought a special Central government package. "The state is witnessing the consequences of climate change. We will ascertain the losses after the monsoons end," he said, adding that the BJP should not politicise it.

In view of the scale of the destruction due to cloudbursts, flash floods and landslides that have severely impacted roads, bridges, power lines and water supply schemes, a formal notification has been issued.

He informed the Assembly, "16 pilgrims have died in the Manimahesh Yatra, and four bodies are still stuck in Kugti village in Bharmour as it's impossible to extricate them because of incessant rains."

The CM said, "Out of the 15,000 pilgrims stranded in Manimahesh, 10,000 have been safely evacuated and sent home via HRTC buses without charge."

The government has deployed 40 NDRF and 40 SDRF personnel, along with local mountaineering teams from Manali, to assist in rescue operations, the CM added while urging tourists not to venture close to rivers and nallas.

Over 1K fruit trucks stuck on Jammu highway

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A week-long closure of the Srinagar–Jammu National Highway has left Kashmir fruit growers facing huge losses, with more than 1,000 fruit-laden trucks stranded carrying apples and pears worth crores.

The highway, which connects Kashmir with the rest of the country, was damaged by landslides and mudslides between Jakhaini and Chenani in Udhampur following heavy rains. Although the Mughal Road is open, authorities have not permitted heavy vehicles to use it. The closure has come at the peak of the apple and pear harvest season. Each truck carries fruit worth somewhere between ₹5 and ₹10 lakh.

Now, AI-based solution to help check food fraud

Researchers at the CSIR-Central Institute of Medicinal and Aromatic Plants (CSIR-CIMAP) in Lucknow have developed an AI-based solution to address food fraud and adulteration in the natural medicine industry. Led by senior scientist CH Ratnasekhar, the team established a technique to verify the authenticity of botanicals such as turmeric, ashwagandha, and basil. By combining AI with high-resolution mass spectrometry to analyse chemical fingerprints, the approach reports over 98% accuracy in identifying geographical origin, variety, specific plant parts, and detecting adulterated samples.

Afghans dig rubble after quake kills 800

Rescue efforts intensify after 6.0 quake hits, injuring over 2,500 across eastern Af

KABUL

DESPERATE Afghans clawed through rubble in search of missing loved ones after a strong earthquake killed some 800 people and injured more than 2,500 in eastern Afghanistan, according to figures provided on Monday by the Taliban government.

The 6.0 magnitude quake on late Sunday hit towns in the province of Kunar, near the city of Jalalabad in neighboring Nangarhar province, causing extensive damage.

The quake at 11.47pm was centered 27 kilometers east-northeast of Jalalabad, the US Geological Survey said. It was just 8 kilometers deep. Shallower quakes tend to cause more damage. Several aftershocks followed. Footage showed rescuers taking injured people on stretchers from collapsed buildings and into helicopters as people frantically dug through rubble with their hands.

The Taliban government's chief spokesman, Zabihullah Mujahid, said at a press conference Monday that the death toll had risen to at least 800 with more than 2,500 injured. He said most of the casualties were in Kunar. Buildings in Afghanistan tend to be low-rise constructions, mostly of concrete and brick, with homes in rural and outlying areas made from mud bricks and wood. Many are poorly built.

One resident in Nurgal district, one of the worst-affected areas in Kunar, said nearly the entire village was destroyed.

"Children are under the rubble. The elderly are under the rubble. Young people are under the rubble," said the villager, who did not give his name. "We need help here," he pleaded. "We need people to come here and join us. Let us pull out the people who are buried. There is no one who can come and remove dead bodies from under the rubble." AP

Afghanistan lies in active quake zone

Afghanistan is frequently hit by earthquakes, especially in the Hindu Kush mountain range, near the junction of the Eurasia and India tectonic plates. Northeast Afghanistan has seen 12 quakes over magnitude 7 since 1900, says expert.

No household, building spared in Wadir village

NŪRGAL

NO household was spared death or injury in the village of Wadir when a powerful earthquake shook eastern Afghanistan, reducing homes to piles of rubble. Aftershocks from the 6.0-magnitude earthquake continued to rumble across the scenes of destruction, where remains of dead livestock jutted out from a tangle of broken beams and muddy, flattened homes.

"In every home at least one person was killed or injured," 55-year-old resident Gul Mohammad Rasooli told AFP, himself injured. The smell of death mingled with the sound of wailing women and scraping shovels as rescuers and residents desperately tried to find anyone still alive.

In front of what was a single-storey mud-brick home, rescuers were undeterred by a string of aftershocks that sent a din echoing between the mountains as they tried to find two children. Their mother had been injured, a rescue worker told AFP, "and when we pulled her out she was calling out for her children", who were still inside. Many families were asleep when the quake struck in the dead of the night.

Every 15 minutes, the roar of a helicopter filled the air, with Taliban security personnel spilling out to unload bread and water and then refilling the aircraft with stretchers bearing those hurt worst.

Men, women and children were ferried to hospitals in the nearest city Jalalabad, capital of Nangarhar province, around 40 kilometres away. Many roads through the mountainous areas that were already difficult to navigate were rendered impassable by landslides.

The grim toll of the earthquake started to become clear from the first hours after the earthquake early on Monday. The country — one of the poorest in the world and regularly hit by natural disasters that are expected to multiply under the effects of climate change — has already counted more than 800 dead.

Thousands of injured are already crammed into hospitals, where doctors and nurses work frantically amid the constant flow of stretchers. In Wadir, where around a 1,000 homes are tucked in the mountains of Kunar province — half of them belong to Afghans recently expelled from neighbouring Pakistan and trying to rebuild their lives -- no one yet dares to give a final death toll. There is no shelter for those left behind in the scarred remnants of the village, said the village mullah Irfan Ulhaq. AFP

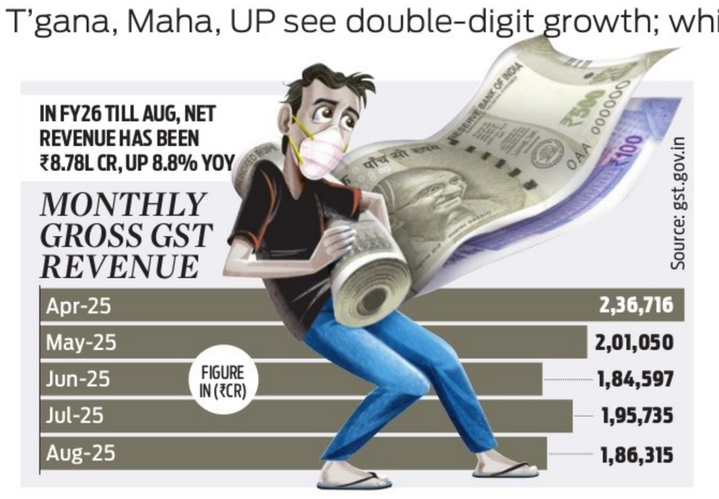
Aug GST revenue at ₹1.86 L cr; lower than July

Andhra, K'taka, Bihar, T'gana, Maha, UP see double-digit growth; while Jharkhand, Manipur see fall in revenue

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi



THE goods and services tax (GST) collections reached ₹1.86 lakh crore in August, a 6.5% increase over the same month last year, according to data released by the Ministry of Finance on Monday. However, the collection in August is slightly lower than that of July's ₹1.96 lakh crore.

Of the total gross collections in August, Central GST collection stood at ₹34,076 crore, and state GST at ₹42,854 crore, integrated GST at ₹97,186 crore and cess at ₹12,199 crore. After adjusting for refunds, the net revenue recorded at ₹1.67 lakh crore, showing a growth of more than 10% compared to August 2024. Refunds in August were lower at ₹19,359 crore, down nearly 20% year-on-year, which supported higher net collections.

In the current financial year till August (April-August), the total net collection has been ₹8.78 lakh crore, up 8.8% YoY.

States like Jharkhand and Manipur along with UTs like Chandigarh, Pondicherry and Lakshadweep there has been a fall in GST revenues. Lakshadweep has the highest fall in revenue with the collection going down by 66%.

"August's GST collections data highlights a familiar trend as a few large states continue to anchor national collections, with Maharashtra, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu and Gujarat together accounting for over a third of the total ₹1.86 lakh crore. The nearly 11% growth in net revenues was aided by strong domestic demand and leaner refunds, underscoring both economic resilience and compliance gains," said Manoj Mishra, Partner, Grant Thornton Bharat LLP.

Among bigger states, Andhra Pradesh saw a 21% YoY increase in collection, followed by Karnataka and Bihar (15%), Telangana (12%), Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh (10%). Mop-up by Tamil Nadu went up by 9% and Gujarat by 6%. The government is set to implement the biggest reform in the country's consumption tax framework as the GST Council will meet on September 3-4. The proposed reforms include reducing the number of tax slabs to two rates – 5% and 18%, and easing the compliance burden.

"The proposed GST rate cuts will likely lift consumption in the festive quarter, though without careful calibration they may narrow state revenues and create settlement pressures," added Mishra.

Car sales plunge sharply in August as buyers wait for GST rate reduction

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

REACTING to speculation of a significant GST (goods and services tax) rate cut, Car sales in India fell sharply in August 2025 as buyers delayed purchases and dealers reduced stock orders.

Domestic passenger vehicle (PV) sales of India's largest carmaker – Maruti Suzuki (MSIL) – fell 8% year-on-year to 131,278 units in August 2025, down from 143,075 units in the corresponding month last year. Maruti's entry-level mini segment (Alto, S-Presso), where chances of a GST rate cut are high, fell to just 6,853 units in August 2025, a fall of 36% YoY.

The carmaker's SUV sales fell 14% to 54,043 units in August as it is preparing for a new model launch on September 3. Mahindra & Mahindra's SUV sales fell 9% YoY in August to 39,399 units, while Tata Motors' PV sales fell 7% to 41,001 units. Hyundai Motor saw its domestic PV sales falling by 11% YoY to 44,001 units. "August saw relatively robust demand in SUV segment amid anticipated GST rate changes. This month, M&M reported 7.4% YoY growth in PV Vahan registrations," said Nalinikanth Gollagunta, CEO, automotive division at M&M.

He added, "With final GST announcement approaching, we decided to bring down wholesale billing to minimise the stock being carried by dealers. We look forward to the GST rationalisation, which would be a demand driver through festive season." Car market has been hit by a sudden fall in sales and enquiries after Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced GST reforms and rate cuts in his Independence Day speech. Buyers have started delaying purchases in anticipation that prices of smaller cars and two-wheelers will fall up to 8-10%.

TVS, Royal Enfield defy GST jitters

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TVS Motor Company and Royal Enfield, both headquartered in Chennai, reported exceptional sales performances in August 2025 even as broader two-wheeler industry growth slowed due to buyer anticipation of a forthcoming GST rate reduction. While TVS entered the coveted half-million club, Royal Enfield sales grew by more than 50%.

TVS Motor for the first time crossed the five lakh unit milestone by recording monthly sales of 509,536 units in August 2025, a growth of 30% year-on-year. The 5 lakh monthly volume feat is achieved by Honda Motorcycle & Scooter India (HMSI) and Hero MotoCorp. HMSI reported flat annual growth in August 2025 as its total sales stood at 534,861 units. Hero MotoCorp's dispatches stood at 553,727 units in August 2025, up 8% YoY. Eicher Motors' Royal Enfield sales grew by 55% to 114,002 in August. Its domestic sales rose 57% YoY to 102,876 units and exports grew 39% to 11,126 motorcycles. "Our performance in August reflects a positive momentum as we step into festive season, which traditionally drives demand in the domestic market," said B Govindarajan, MD - Eicher Motors and CEO - Royal Enfield.

India and UAE set target of $100 bn trade under CEPA

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

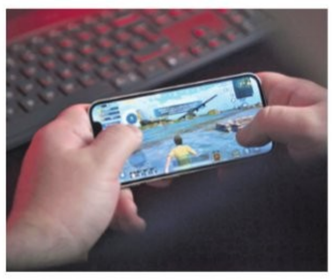
IN a bid to deepen Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA), India and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) has set a shared goal of achieving $100 billion in non-oil, non-precious-metals trade by 2030.

The target was set during a bilateral meeting between commerce and industry minister Piyush Goyal and UAE foreign trade minister Thani bin Ahmed Al Zeyoudi, on August 29. Both countries agreed for enhanced trade data sharing, while agreeing that the CEPA Joint Committee on Services will convene within two months to drive operational progress.

"The Ministers noted the importance of initiatives such as the Local Currency Settlement System (INR–AED) and Bharat Mart in the UAE as enablers of trade facilitation," stated the release issued by the Ministry of Commerce after the meeting. Both the ministers co-chaired stakeholder meetings with representatives of the pharmaceutical and food sectors. To further enhance the diplomatic outreach, India plans to have a strong presence at Gulf Food 2026—one of the region's premier agro-food expos— to showcase products such as food items, marine produce, tea, coffee, and spices After signing of the agreement in 2022, the export from India to UAE has gone up to $36.6 thousand million in 2024-25 from $28.04 thousand million in 2021-22. CEPA was signed between India and the UAE in 2022.

Online gaming companies plan job cuts

SANAL SUDEVAN @ Chennai



THE ban on online money gaming has begun to show its impact, with many gaming companies preparing for job cuts. Reports suggest Indian online gaming app Mobile Premier League (MPL) is planning to reduce 60% of its workforce—roughly 300 of its 500 employees. Other gaming companies like Baazi and Games24x7 are also said to be considering cutting up to 50% of their jobs.

Gaming major Nazara Technologies has terminated its deal — announced on September 12, 2024 — to acquire a 0.96% equity stake in Moonshine Technology from I3 Interactive Inc. Moonshine is the parent company of online poker platform PokerBaazi. As per reports, termination of the deal could result in more than 200 job losses at Moonshine.

Meanwhile, US-based Flutter Entertainment-owned Junglee Rummy Games has said it will absorb most of the 950 employees at its Bengaluru office. However, company insiders claim nearly 200 employees have already left. A final decision on the remaining staff will be taken once Junglee Rummy Games CEO Ankush Gera returns from the US next week.

Last month, the government announced a ban on online money games, terming them a social evil. The industry claimed the ban would jeopardise livelihood of about 1 lakh people directly and indirectly engaged in the sector. However, S Krishnan, secretary at the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY), earlier told TNIE the number of jobs purely dependent on money games would only be in the thousands, while more than 300 million people play such games. "It means that many families are impacted by these money games. Therefore, we must balance that against the larger social good," he said.

As per Aditya Narayan Mishra, MD & CEO of CIEL HR, over 2,000 professionals from the real-money gaming sector are currently seeking opportunities, reflecting the uncertainty created by the evolving regulatory framework.

Ashwini Vaishnaw meets industry representatives

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MINISTER for Electronics and Information Technology Ashwini Vaishnaw, along with senior officials, on Monday held a meeting with representatives from the online gaming industry to discuss the implications of the Promotion and Regulation of Online Gaming Act, 2025.

The discussions also focused on the promotion of eSports and social games as part of the government's broader digital ecosystem strategy. As per government sources, the meeting addressed key concerns, including orderly transition to the new legal framework and protection of user funds. The officials acknowledged that the industry has begun taking measures to comply with the Act.

These steps include winding down operations involving real-money games and cooperating with payment intermediaries to prevent violations of the new law. The meeting took place just days after the Promotion and Regulation of Online Gaming Bill, 2025 was passed by Parliament on August 21 and received presidential assent.

The Act bans all forms of online real-money gaming while establishing a central authority to regulate permissible formats such as eSports and casual online games. Electronics and IT secretary S Krishnan, speaking at an ICEA event on semiconductors, confirmed that the government will notify the Online Gaming Act shortly. He said the implementation will be swift and that all necessary steps are being taken to bring the law into effect at the earliest.

MSSSL to raise output with new plant in K'taka

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

MUKAND Sumi Special Steel Limited (MSSSL), a JV between Bajaj Group and Japan's Sumitomo Corporation, announced on Monday it will expand its production to 7 lakh tonne per annum with construction of a greenfield integrated steel-making facility at Kanakapura in Karnataka.

The facility, with an investment of ₹2,345 crore will be designed as a sustainability-first plant, and will follow a zero liquid, solid and gaseous discharge model, with 95% of energy needs met through renewables. MSSSL has committed to achieving net-zero steel manufacturing by 2050 and this expansion forms a critical milestone. Future phases will integrate hydrogen-ready infra and carbon capture technologies.

Manufacturing sector growth fastest in 17 yrs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE manufacturing sector activity has hit 17.5-year high at 59.3 in August as production expanded rapidly, driven by pre-festive demand, helping offset the impact of the 50% punitive tariffs on Indian goods that kicked in from the last week of the month, a private survey of the industrial activity has showed on Monday.

The manufacturing PMI in July was at 59.1, showed an HSBC survey of the manufacturing activity based on the purchasing managers' index compiled by S&P Global. Overall order growth remained resilient, supported by strong domestic deman, the British lender said, adding the upward movement in the headline figure reflects acceleration in production volumes, with the pace of expansion the quickest in nearly 5 years.

"The manufacturing PMI has hit another new high in August, driven by an expansion in production," said Pranjul Bhandari, chief economist at HSBC India. The expansion signals that domestic demand has cushioned export slowdown as new orders continued to flow in strongly, matching July's pace, which was the fastest in 57 months. The strongest sales and output performances came in the intermediate goods category, followed by capital and then consumer goods, Bhandari said, adding that flash PMI had rose to 65.2 in August on record services, which was the highest on record since data collection began in 2000, while final services PMI for June had hit a 10-month high of 60.4.

The survey showed that there was a softer increase in international orders, with the rise being the weakest in the last five months. Firms reported securing new work from Asia, Europe, West Asia and the US. Much of this strength came from domestic buyers, with manufacturers pointing to successful advertising campaigns.

US tariffs: Analysts see rupee falling to 90 level

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

Exporters who sold at 87.80 may wait for further declines, while importers are advised to hedge on major dips

Anil Kumar Bhansali, Finrex Treasury Advisors

THE deepening trade tension between New Delhi and Washington that began with the US slapping an additional 25% punitive tariffs on India's exports from last week may force rupee to plunge past 90 mark, unless the central bank props it up, warn economists.

Despite the broader market getting a leg-up from the unexpectedly high 7.8% GDP print in June quarter, rupee hit a record intra-day low for the second straight session on Monday. However, it pared the losses to end flat, closing 1 paisa up at 88.20 against greenback after falling to a record low of 88.34.

Apart from the tariff jitters, experts also warn that the rupee could remain under pressure weighed down by massive selloff by foreign portfolio investors, which touched close to ₹35,000 crore in August, the highest in six months. So far this year, FPIs have sold nearly ₹1.4 lakh crore in domestic equities. Another reason for the weakness is the rising bonds yields. Yields on the 10-year bond rose to 6.70% before easing to 6.59% on Monday.

Bank of Baroda economist Aditi Gupta sees rupee plunging to 90 level and the pressure on the domestic currency is unlikely to ease in the near-term. However, she expects the RBI will defend the currency.

The central bank may allow more depreciation to maintain competitiveness against peers facing lower tariffs so that exporters hit hard by the punitive tariffs may not suffer much, as per Anil Kumar Bhansali of Finrex Treasury Advisors.

"Exporters who sold at 87.80 may now wait for further declines, while importers are advised to hedge on major dips and cover near-term payables on smaller ones," he said.

"The currency has bucked regional trend to weaken on the back of tariff differential vs peers, and portfolio outflows, mainly from equity markets," said Radhika Rao, economist at DBS Bank. Amit Pabari of CR Forex Advisors said the RBI may prefer to let rupee reflect external pressures more freely rather than using reserves to defend a particular level.

"The rationale could be that a weaker rupee, to some extent, helps offset the tariff-induced export strain by making our goods more competitive abroad. At the same time, external headwinds and foreign outflows are also significant, and resisting them entirely could prove costly and ineffective."

Rupee weakness has coincided with lacklustre foreign portfolio investment inflows. Despite strong macroeconomic backdrop and a high Q1 growth of 7.8% that managed to beat expectations, global investors have been cautious. "Foreign inflows, by foreign funds, have remained on a weaker side this year. This is because of the elevated tariff war, which is creating a high degree of uncertainty in the markets and impacting investor sentiments," BoB's Gupta said.

Ashok Leyland partners with China's CALB; to invest ₹5k cr in battery mfg

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

COMMERCIAL vehicle manufacturer Ashok Leyland is partnering with Chinese battery giant CALB Group to invest in the development and manufacturing of next-generation batteries, for both automotive and non-automotive applications, including energy storage systems. This business would entail investments of over ₹5000 crore over the next 7-10 years.

The Hinduja Group company has entered into a long-term partnership with CALB Group as relationship between India and China improves. Chinese President Xi Jinping during bilateral meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi said it is right choice for India and China to be friends. Modi on Monday said he concluded a "productive" visit to China during which he attended the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) summit.

Industry sources said a large number of local auto and ancillary players are scouting for partnerships with Chinese firms to meet demand for batteries and components like rare magnets and semiconductors in India. As per reports, JSW Group is exploring a partnership with China's Chery Automobile to secure supply of components and technologies for its upcoming electric vehicles.

With an estimated 70–77% share of the global market, China dominates EV battery manufacturing. This control stems from its mastery of entire supply chain, from raw material mining and processing to production of components and final assembly. India's EC ecosystem relies on China for components like lithium-ion cells and rare earth magnets. Ashok Leyland said it will invest in battery localisation in India. This will not only provide for Ashok Leyland & Switch's own EV portfolio but would also cater to non-captive demand in the entire automotive sector as well as in the energy storage sector, it added.

Strategic partnership with CALB is a step towards creating localised battery supply chain in India to accelerate adoption of EVs and reduce our dependence on fossil fuels - Dheeraj Hinduja, Chairman, Ashok Leyland

New Delhi to host Badminton World C'ships in Aug 2026

New Delhi has been chosen as the host city of the next Badminton World Championships in August 2026, the sport's global governing body BWF announced on Monday. The Badminton World Federation's (BWF) most prestigious tournament will return to India after 17 years, with Hyderabad hosting it first way back in 2009.

Less than a month to go, but WC tickets yet to open

Shorter the time for fans, difficult it is for them to plan their travel

India will play Sri Lanka in the opening game of the World Cup on September 30 | AFP

THE home page of the International Cricket Council (ICC) wore an updated look on Monday. The lead headline of the page spoke volumes about the continued growth story of women's story. "Record prize money," it says, "revealed for Women's Cricket World Cup."

Above that, on the home page menu, is a small three word update on said 50-over World Cup. "REGISTER YOUR INTEREST". When you click on it, a new window opens. "Register your interest today to ensure you are the first to receive the latest news and ticketing information straight to your inbox."

Yep, with less than one month to go for the start of the pinnacle of the women's game, there's still no clarity on when ticket sales are likely to commence. To be fair to the stakeholders, this isn't a problem with how they see women's cricket. They did the same thing the last time India hosted a global cricket event (the men's equivalent in 2023). The end result was a very homogenous crowd in terms of colour, chants and, unfortunately, allegations of violence against a few foreign fans.

But it's disappointing that lessons are yet to be learned. What makes a World Cup special is the vibrancy and the colour of visiting fans. What makes a World Cup appointment viewing is the din of travelling supporters who embrace the local culture but always carry a piece of themselves from home either in the form of jerseys or the music or the food or the choice of beverage.

In March 2020, when Australia hosted India in the final in front of over 86,000 fans, the numbers suggested that women's cricket was primed for take off (it was a record for a women's cricket match). But the ICC and Cricket Australia worked towards it as they started rolling out ticket sales one year before the start of the tournament. If the stakeholders managed to do that in 2019, why haven't the stakeholders managed to do it now?

You need to give fans time to sort out their travel plans, book their holidays... in essence, give them a fair chance of bagging flight tickets, blocking hotel rooms and constructing a workable, feasible schedule. That's how overseas and locals make it to a lot of sporting events. Two years on from the last global event in India, the needle hasn't moved whatsoever. For the record, ticketing primarily rests with the host body for all ICC events. To just drive home this point, the ECB — hosts for next year's women's T20 World Cup — have already started the ticketing process. It is understood that the ticketing process for this year's World Cup is expected to begin over the next few days but this risks alienating a lot of fans who would have otherwise travelled the length and breadth of the country.

Tickets for Tests in India?

It kind of segues into the ticket process for the four red-ball games the men's team is set to feature in against West Indies and South Africa. In the recent past, thanks to a very friendly pricing policy (tickets have been available for as low as ₹200), fans flocked to the stands. In last year's five-Test series against England, there was decent crowd turn out in places.

It was grand, especially when you take into considering the BCCI and state associations (they provide ground support) stuck to their policy of announcing ticket sales very late. The world's richest cricket board have acted on some shortcomings including creating a Women's Premier League. It's now time to address this issue.

'Short order' before final judgement for AIFF case

ENS/AGENCIES @ Chennai

THE Supreme Court on Monday reserved the order involving renewal of the Master Right Agreement (MRA) between the FSDL and All India Football Federation (AIFF) that will pave way for hosting the Indian Super League (ISL).

Justices PS Narasimha and Joymalya Bagchi of the Supreme Court during the hearing said that the bench would first pass a short order on the this urgent issue and then pass a verdict regarding the constitution. The bench also said that the constitution is ready but because of the Sports Governance Bill 2025 that is on verge of becoming an Act they are not pronouncing it. However, even if the order is passed it will only last until the Act comes into force. As of now an interim body is running the AIFF. On Monday, the bench heard all stakeholders before pronouncing the final judgement on the Federation's draft constitution.

"They have to abide by the (National Sports Governance) Act, once it comes into force and is subject to whatever subordinate legislation. Meanwhile, this can be implemented. The reason is, we do not want the constitution to be delayed any further. Whether you go ahead with it but once the act comes into force then the act is there and if anyone has an issue with it an independent petition can be filed before the court," the court observed.

The court also stated that it needed to know how long it will take before the act is being notified. "On that basis we will proceed (on the constitution)," observed the bench.

Presently, the interim committee is led by AIFF president Kalyan Chaubey. The hearing concluded with the bench stating that a 'short order' will come soon, before the final judgement, which is ready.

They have to abide by the (National Sports Governance) Act, once it comes into force and is subject to whatever subordinate legislation. Meanwhile, this can be implemented. The reason is, we do not want the constitution to be delayed any further.

— Supreme Court bench of Justices PS Narasimha and Joymalya Bagchi

Senior advocate Maneka Guruswamy, appearing in the court for one of the parties, said this should not mean that the constitutionality of the Act has been upheld as there are several aspects like bringing the state associations in the ambit of the central Act that will certainly be challenged. The bench said the validity of the law or its provisions can be challenged anytime and it will clarify the position in the judgment on the issue of constitution.

Senior advocate Ranjit Kumar, appearing in the court for the AIFF, said the federation has agreed that it will conduct an open, competitive and transparent tender (or equivalent process) for selecting a commercial partner to conduct the ISL, in line with global best practices.

First slip for champs Barca in Rayo draw

AGENCIES @ Madrid

CHAMPIONS Barcelona dropped their first points of the La Liga season with a 1-1 draw at Rayo Vallecano on Sunday.

The Catalan giants had goalkeeper Joan Garcia to thank for earning them that as he made several fine saves on a testing night in the Spanish capital. Barca took the lead through a contested Lamine Yamal penalty, at a time in the match VAR was not working, but Fran Perez levelled after the break for the hosts, who could have gone on to win. After leaders Real Madrid won their third game on Saturday and Athletic Bilbao followed suit earlier on Sunday, Barcelona are fourth and trail the leaders by two points.

"We didn't deserve more -- in the end we had a fantastic goalkeeper," said Barca coach Hansi Flick. "We made too many mistakes, too many errors and this is why they come back and this was not a good match for us."

Barca's teenage star Yamal said his team had to come back strongly in a fortnight.

Ajitesh century puts TNCA Prez's XI in command

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

BRIEF SCORES At CSK-HPC: TNCA President's XI 503/7 in 180 ovs (Vimal Khumar 112, Pradosh Ranjan Paul 91, C Andre Siddarth 57, G Ajitesh 101, RS Ambrish 62 batting) vs Jammu & Kashmir. At Guru Nanak: Hyderabad 225 & 49/1 in 16 ovs (Aman Rao 30 batting) vs Haryana 208 in 79.3 ovs (Himanshu Rana 75, Parth Vats 36, Rohith Rayudu 5/63).

AFTER Vimal Khumar on Day 1, it was the turn of G Ajitesh to frustrate the Jammu and Kashmir bowlers with a punishing century (101; 162b, 14x4) on the second day of the All India Buchi Babu Invitation Tournament being played at CSK-HPC grounds on the outskirts of the city on Monday.

Ajitesh's effort put TNCA President's XI in command as they were comfortably placed at 503/7 in 180 overs at stumps.Under overcast conditions and the wicket being a bit tricky in the morning which had a bit of moisture, Ajitesh applied himself and came out with flying colours. Ajitesh was involved in a couple of 50 plus partnerships: For fifth wicket, he added 89 runs with C Andre Siddarth. Then for the sixth wicket along with Ambrish he added 88 runs. "Delighted to score my maiden century in Buchi Babu. Very pleased with my effort as it served the team's cause," said Ajitesh after the day's play. "Under overcast conditions and a bit of a tricky surface, I first played it safe and to the merit of the ball and wanted to see off the first hour or so. Then when the conditions improved I slowly started playing my natural game and runs came at a consistent pace," he added.

Ajitesh also credited fellow batters for guiding him through the innings. "Yes I had small chats with Andre and Ambrish as to how to first play quietly under overcast conditions and not take any risks by playing across the line or lofted shots. We wanted to go with the flow of the ball. With Ambrish too I wanted to score as many runs as possible as the conditions were getting better. The idea was not to throw away the wickets early in the morning and give the visitors the advantage," revealed the 22-year old.

There is a three way race for the second wicketkeeper's slot as it is a battle between Lokeshwar S, Tushar Raheja and Ajitesh. "Yes I am aware of the competition. But I was not thinking about that, I just wanted to contribute for the team." insisted Ajitesh.

Tamil Nadu chief coach, who is also the coach of TNCA President's XI, doffed his hat to Ajitesh. "Yeah, it was an awesome innings from Ajitesh," M Senthilnathan said.

SHOOTING

After gold in Kazakhstan, Gurpreet seeks rapid growth

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

VETERAN Gurpreet Singh has been training his guns for many moons now.

The shooter from the Indian Army is one of the last standing members of Indian pistol OGs that had a hand in lifting the sport during the Commonwealth Games in 2010. Many have come and left in the last 15 years or so but the shooter from Punjab continues to be ultra-competitive at the elite level.

The Olympian's hunger and desire to evolve and be the best version of himself was evident during his gold-medal effort during the recent Asian Championships in Shymkent, Kazakhstan. He had topped the men's 25m standard pistol category during the continental meet. Many might overlook this event given that it's not an Olympic discipline but not Gurpreet. "Winning is a habit, be it an Olympic event or non-Olympic event. That is why many take part in events so that they can cultivate this winning habit. If not in a particular place, maybe elsewhere," he said.

Earlier this year, he had featured in the opening two World Cups — Lima and Buenos Aires — in the men's 25m rapid fire pistol, a discipline he is constantly looking to improve and bring medals for the country. However, after some below-par scores in the national trials, he now finds him down the pecking order. But he is determined to bounce back and find his rhythm with the LA Olympics in mind.

"I'm a bit down (rapid fire rankings). Until 2028 at the very least, I want to give it all.

Veteran Gurpreet Singh won gold at Asian Championships in Shymkent.

Now, we (Army) have recalled our former coach as well. He had joined in April and I had gone for a World Cup then," said Gurpreet, who had finished a respectable seventh in the said category during the 2016 Rio Games.

The coach in question is former India pistol coach Pavel Smirnov, who is credited to have had a big hand in Vijay Kumar's silver medal at the 2012 London Olympics. With an experienced hand to guide him, Gurpreet is hopeful of ironing out his flaws and getting high scores.

"I have come unstuck this season. I have made mistakes but have been unable to figure out solutions for those mistakes. That's where a coach can step in and help, make suggestions on how to improve. Along with the coach, I'll try to sort things out gradually. This month I want to give it all."

After gaining some momentum in Shymkent, Gurpreet has no time to rest as he'll be taking part in the national selection trials in Bhopal. That is the No 1 priority for the shooter now.

With experience, Gurpreet has learnt to live in the present and given the competition within the national team, his mantra is to make the most of his chances. "Earlier, medals used to come some place or the other. Now, the team has become smaller but it has become healthier. So what happens is very few shooters get opportunities. When the competition is this healthy, you feel this (competition) is an opportunity and you want to do it now. My motivation is 'now is the chance and I want to pull it off'.

With a proven coach to help him stay focussed and with his positive outlook towards the craft, Gurpreet will be looking to make the most of his upcoming opportunities, beginning with the trials in Bhopal.

Many people struggle when told they need to lose 20-30 kg, the task feels overwhelming. But aiming for 5% makes the journey realistic. It can be achieved through small, consistent steps like cutting out sugary drinks, eating more vegetables, walking 30 minutes daily, or reducing portion sizes

Even 5% weight loss can do wonders for blood pressure and heart health

RISHITA KHANNA @ Bengaluru

WHAT if losing just a few kilos could protect your heart, lower your blood pressure, and even reduce your risk of stroke or dementia? The American Heart Association's (AHA) latest 2025 blood pressure guidelines suggest exactly that. The findings reveal that shedding as little as 5% of body weight, something most people think of as a modest change, can bring measurable improvements in blood pressure and heart health, especially for those living with diabetes.

This shift in approach places everyday habits at the centre. Instead of focusing only on medication, the new guidelines highlight simple but powerful lifestyle steps like cutting back on salt, limiting alcohol, staying active, and most importantly, achieving modest weight loss.

Why do the guidelines matter?

High blood pressure, or hypertension, is often referred to as the 'silent killer'. The nickname is accurate as most people with hypertension don't feel sick. They may not even know they have the condition until a sudden health crisis occurs – like a heart attack, stroke, kidney failure, or even memory decline in later life, Dr Anupama V Hegde, senior consultant, department of cardiology, Ramaiah Institute of Cardiac Sciences, Ramaiah Memorial Hospital, said.

AHA, along with the American College of Cardiology (ACC), periodically updates its recommendations on how to measure, diagnose, and manage hypertension. While local bodies may adapt them, they serve as a global reference point because they are based on rigorous evidence and large-scale clinical trials. In 2025, AHA released its latest update, and the most striking shift was a renewed focus on lifestyle, particularly the role of weight management.

This update matters for two reasons, Dr Anupama said, pointing out that the guidelines acknowledge that while medications are life-saving and often essential, many people can make measurable improvements in blood pressure through changes in diet, exercise, and weight control. This is empowering because it means patients don't have to wait for a prescription, they can take action themselves. Secondly, the guidelines underscore that even modest improvements in weight and lifestyle can prevent the progression of disease and cut the risk of complications, she added.

These guidelines are significant because they refine what doctors should be watching for. "Blood pressure is not just about a single reading taken at a clinic, the guidelines push for more home monitoring, earlier intervention, and better detection of conditions like primary aldosteronism (a hormonal cause of high blood pressure)," she said, further highlighting that the scope now also explicitly includes pregnancy, cognitive decline, and kidney function–showing that hypertension isn't just a 'heart problem', but a systemic health challenge.

New target: 130/80 mm Hg

One of the first questions patients often ask their doctor is: "What should my blood pressure be?" For decades, the answer has shifted slightly as research evolved. The 2025 AHA guidelines maintain the target that was first emphasised in 2017 – blood pressure should ideally be kept below 130/80 mm Hg in most adults.

Blood pressure is measured with two numbers - systolic (the top number, when the heart contracts) and diastolic (the bottom number, when the heart relaxes). A healthy adult is expected to have systolic readings below 120 and diastolic readings below 80. When those numbers climb and stay above target, the strain on blood vessels increases. Over time, arteries stiffen, the heart muscle thickens, and organs like the kidneys and brain receive less healthy circulation.

What makes 130/80 important is the evidence linking even mildly raised readings to long-term harm. In the past, doctors often reassured patients with readings like 135/85 that they were "borderline" and didn't need treatment yet. But studies showed that people in that range had significantly higher rates of heart attack and stroke over 10–20 years. By lowering the threshold for what is considered "high", AHA is encouraging early and proactive management.

For patients, experts say, the key takeaway is that there is no safe cushion of slightly high blood pressure. Even numbers once considered "not too bad" can be risky over time.

One of the most hopeful messages in the 2025 guidelines is that you don't need to lose half your body weight to make a difference, Dr Shyam Sunder KR, senior consultant, interventional cardiology, Aster RV Hospital, said, highlighting that a modest 5% reduction in weight — such as losing 4kg if you weigh 80kg — can lead to measurable improvements in blood pressure.

Weight and hypertension

Dr Sunder explained that excess body fat, especially around the abdomen, contributes to hypertension through several pathways. It increases insulin resistance, which affects blood sugar control and drives the kidneys to retain more sodium. It also boosts levels of hormones that constrict blood vessels and keep blood pressure high.

"Clinical studies show that this modest loss can reduce blood pressure by about 4–5 mm Hg. While it may not sound dramatic, it has outsized effects – a 5 mm Hg drop in systolic pressure reduces the risk of stroke by about 14% and heart disease by 9%. Those are meaningful numbers at a population level. The appeal of the 5% goal is its achievability," Dr Sunder noted.

'MY SONGS ARE LIKE CHOW-CHOW BATH'

Ahead of their performance at the 63rd Bengaluru Ganesh Utsava, Sruthi Hemachandran catches up with singers Vijay Prakash and Vijay Yesudas to talk music, craft and inspirations that shape their unique voices

THE soft strains of a song drifted through the evening air last year at the Bengaluru Ganesh Utsava (BGU), as a woman tapped her fingers gently against her saree pallu, lost in the melody, while others around her paused, softened by the familiar tune.

The breezy anthem was carried by singer Vijay Prakash, whose effortless command across genres has long enchanted listeners. This year, audiences are ready to experience that magic once again as he returns to BGU at National College Grounds, Basavanagudi, on September 2, bringing with him the same passion and devotion that has defined his career over the decades.

Reflecting on the diversity of his repertoire, the Singara Siriye singer says, "I feel truly blessed to sing across multiple genres, from film songs to devotional and classical music. For me, everything is music, born from the seven notes, no matter the style. I just want to give my best in every performance. How people remember me is beyond my control but with every piece I create, I aim to give my all, and I will continue to do so."

While awards and popularity matter, he underscores that true artistic fulfilment lies in getting up each day with the same enthusiasm to create music. "Awards and popularity do matter because they show that people appreciate your work. But beyond that, true success for me is waking up each day with the same passion to create something beautiful in music. The joy of making something new every morning is what I consider true fulfilment."

Though born into a family of classical musicians, Prakash has always embraced every genre equally. "My parents or the elders never stopped me from hearing other genres of music. I have sung devotional, semi-classical, melodic, and folk dance numbers. In my concerts, I cover every genre, and I'll continue to celebrate all styles without limiting myself to one."

> Awards and popularity do matter because they show that people appreciate your work... The joy of making something new every morning is what I consider true fulfilment.
>
> — Vijay Prakash, singer

His listening habits are just as eclectic. He moves between jazz, ghazal, folk, and classical with ease, letting one style flow into another. Since 'everything originates from the same seven notes', he finds the transitions seamless and beautiful.

On switching between his romantic hits like Belageddu (Kirik Party) and Innum Konjam Naeram (Maryan) and devotional or classical songs, he says, romantic songs feel like a conversation with loved ones, full of ease, while devotional or classical music is a dialogue with the divine and with nature. "The shift between these styles happens naturally, the body, mind, and soul find their own rhythm to deliver what each moment requires," he shares.

Amidst deadlines, travel, and noise, he remains grounded in calm: "If there is peace within, you can find silence even in a busy market. Your inner world determines how noisy the external world feels. If there is cacophony inside, even a meditation hall can feel chaotic. I try to maintain that inner silence so that daily pressures don't disturb my peace. That calm allows me to create music and connect with listeners with ease."

On a lighthearted note, when asked to compare his voice to a signature Mysuru (his hometown) dish, he laughs. "I would say chow chow bath. It's a combination of upittu and kesari bath. My songs are also a mix of sweet and spicy," Prakash says, likening it to the variety in his music.

'AI CAN NEVER COPY THE SOUL OF MY FATHER'S SONGS'

FOR more than 25 years, singer Vijay Yesudas has carved out a career on his own terms. His voice, uncannily similar in timbre to that of his father, singer KJ Yesudas, moves with ease between classical rigour and the fluidity of film music, keeping him relevant through shifting times.

What sets him apart is not just the versatility but also the way he reflects on music. From algorithms to AI, from timeless recordings to the everyday rhythms of nature, he sees music as both tradition and evolution, deeply personal yet universally shared.

He carries the reverence for music to his live sets, embracing it in its pure form. "I thrive on the energy the audience gives me. As I get older, the more amazing it feels to keep doing it, and the adrenaline rush I get now is far more than what I used to get in my 20s. Just that my knees can't take it as much now," he quips ahead of rehearsals for his performance on September 3 at National College Grounds, Basavanagudi.

When he started, there was no social media and fast forward to today, he has seen technological advances in recording and distribution transform everything. "The audience then was only fed through radio or newspapers. People no longer buy records or cassettes. They can decide instantly what to listen to from anywhere," he says. For him, it is a win-win. "What once needed a big record label to travel across India can now be shared worldwide with ease," he adds.

> I thrive on the energy the audience gives me... and the adrenaline rush I get now is far more than what I used to get in my 20s
>
> — Vijay Yesudas, singer

This sense of openness mirrors the South Indian industry itself. Vijay resists calling it experimentation, describing it instead as an expression of versatility. "Up north, they still stick to some traditional or already tried formulae which work for them. Down here, we just go with our gut and belt it out with everything we have," the Hodi Maga singer says. Films like Kantara, Aavesham and Romancham capture this spirit, mixing funk, rap and hip hop with cultural roots and hitting it big in the process.

But the future also raises questions, and artificial intelligence (AI) is one of them. Vijay finds AI fascinating, a symbol of human capacity, yet he worries about its pace.

"No matter what, AI can never copy the soul of my father or Isaignani's (Ilaiyaraaja) songs," he says. "No AI is gonna be able to repeat my feel without me inspiring it. Until I can, I'll be singing straight from my heart. I might use AI for making my music videos better, but I won't use it to enhance my voice. I hope I won't have to ever."

Music has been a healer for many and Vijay admits it is no different for him. "We all need music in some way or the other to help us at different times. Along with my kids, it's what has kept me going, and it always will till I stop breathing."

His father's catalogue is a well he too returns to. Asked if there is one Yesudas song that gives him strength, his response is instant: Many.

If voices could be swapped for a night, he knows exactly where he would begin. "I would swap my voice with my father's. Even though my voice is similar to his, I would love to know the minute differences that most people can't catch, which even I struggle to grasp. Then, Frank Sinatra, Rafi Saab and Sonu Nigam."

Through changing times, evolving technology, and shifting trends, Vijay continues to live and breathe music as he always has - alive and ever-present.

PULL-UPS VS LAT PULL-DOWNS: FOR A STRONGER BACK

Building upper-body strength is high on the list for most gym-goers today. Whether you're an experienced lifter or just starting out, understanding which exercises work and which muscles are key to making progress safely. Among the many back exercises available, two stand out as essentials: pull-ups and lat pull-downs. Here's a break down on why this pair is the ultimate combo for building a powerful, defined back.

PULL-UPS: THE BODYWEIGHT CLASSIC

Pull-ups are a benchmark of strength. Done by lifting your own bodyweight, they primarily target the latissimus dorsi (lats) — the large muscles spanning your back. But they don't stop there; rhomboids, biceps, traps, and rear deltoids also fire up during each rep.

KEY BENEFITS OF PULL-UPS

- Stronger, wider back: Pull-ups encourage progressive overload, helping athletes build the width and thickness of their back muscles.
- Improved grip strength: Because your forearms and hands anchor you to the bar, pull-ups naturally improve grip – a skill that carries over to other lifts.
- Full-body coordination: From core engagement to leg positioning, pull-ups demand your entire body to work together, boosting coordination.

HOW TO PERFORM A PULL-UP

- Grip the bar palms facing away, hands shoulder-width apart. Hang with arms extended.
- Keep shoulders back and core tight, then pull yourself upward.
- Lift until your chin clears the bar, then lower slowly to full extension.

LAT PULL-DOWNS: THE CONTROLLED BUILDER

For those who struggle with pull-ups, lat pull-downs are the perfect alternative – or complement. Performed on a machine, the movement isolates the lats while offering adjustable resistance. Beginners can start light, while advanced lifters can load up for strength gains.

KEY BENEFITS OF LAT PULL-DOWNS

- Customisable strength training: The machine allows you to adjust the weight easily, making it suitable for all fitness levels.
- Aesthetic gains: Often called the back builder, lat pull-downs sculpt the lats to create the much-desired V-taper physique.

HOW TO PERFORM A LATPULL-DOWN

- Sit at the machine, adjust the thigh pad, and grip the bar wider than shoulder-width.
- With core braced, pull the bar down towards your upper chest.
- Squeeze your shoulder blades, then return slowly to the starting position.

THE BOTTOM LINE

Pull-ups build raw, functional strength, while lat pull-downs allow for controlled progression. Together, they form a comprehensive back workout that balances power with aesthetics. For anyone serious about upper-body development, combining these two moves is non-negotiable.

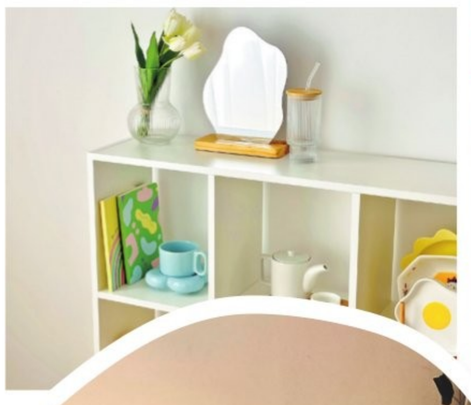
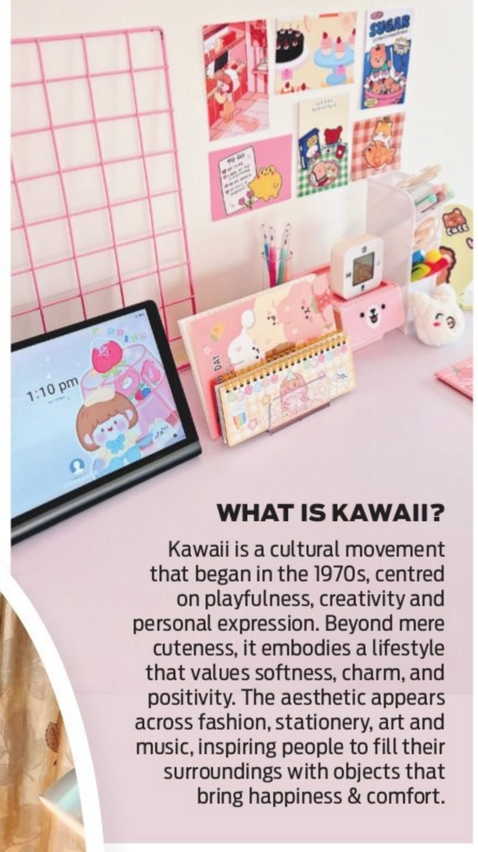
CE explores how pastels and Japanese-inspired playfulness are transforming interiors





WHAT IS KAWAII?

Kawaii is a cultural movement that began in the 1970s, centred on playfulness, creativity and personal expression. Beyond mere cuteness, it embodies a lifestyle that values softness, charm, and positivity. The aesthetic appears across fashion, stationery, art and music, inspiring people to fill their surroundings with objects that bring happiness & comfort.

A 'PEACE' OF KAWAII

SRUTHI HEMACHANDRAN

WITH digital overload and constant stress dominating life, soft colours and whimsical objects work like visual therapy. That's what Kawaii interiors aims to do. When GS Shruti (@shrustudies), a student and digital creator, finally began decorating her room, she knew exactly what she wanted – pastels, comfort, and magic. "It was always a dream to have my own space and decorate it how I like. I love pastels, especially pink and white. Right now, I am happy with my desk area," she says.

For Shruti, who loves all things cute and cosy, the Kawaii aesthetic is more than a design choice. "My room is my comfort place, I turn on my yellow lamp, light a candle, read or watch videos, and it gives me peace."

"For many, especially women, a Kawaii room becomes a peaceful retreat. Research suggests that having a carefully designed space can positively impact mood, productivity, and concentration, making it easier for children and young adults to focus," adds Siri Shekar, a Bengaluru-based architect.

Beyond just cute

The Japanese word 'Kawaii' is often translated to 'cute', but in reality, it is a cultural movement shaping fashion, art, music, lifestyle, and increasingly, interiors. "The aesthetic is getting popular because it feels like a warm hug in a busy world," says Chandana (@chandu.diaries), an influencer and culture enthusiast. "I love how it brings soft colours and cute little things into everyday life, and it makes me happy. My go-to colour combo is pink, white, and beige," she adds.

In India, design expertise in Kawaii interiors is still emerging, though awareness and interest are steadily growing. Pastels are now replacing sterile whites or loud pop tones, offering a gentler, alternative that prioritises warmth and individuality. Think cloud-shaped lamps, pastel rugs, mushroom motifs, wall stickers, cute bowls, miniatures, and other playful accessories. These elements evoke calm and a sense of wonder.

Future's pink!

Trend reports highlight the growing popularity of playful, youthful shades in interiors. Thrift pink, a cheerful tone closely linked to Kawaii aesthetics, is gaining attention for its lighthearted and fun qualities and is expected to shape interiors in the upcoming seasons. This colour is valued for its ability to brighten spaces and introduce warmth, creating a playful yet comforting atmosphere. Alongside soft pastels, it reflects a broader shift where interiors embrace a 'kidult' spirit, blending youthful energy with adult functionality.

Designer toys like Pucky and Labubu too are becoming home decor as collectible accents, blurring the line between toy shelves and living spaces.

According to Bengaluru-based product designer Anjana, Kawaii isn't just about cute characters; it's a broader vibe inspired by Japan's fashion, lifestyle, art, and music. "Soft aesthetics with warm and pastel hues can transform interiors, bringing comfort and optimism while creating a serene, joyful atmosphere. In home decor, this translates to pastel furniture, soft textile accents like sheets, cushions, curtains, rugs, and throws, along with plush toys, fairy lights, florals, framed art, and floral lamps," she says.

For Richa Dessai (@ri.dailyy), a Goa-based content creator and professional baker, the Kawaii aesthetic has also been about finding joy in gradual transformation. "I've always been drawn to soft, cosy, and cheerful spaces that brighten my mood. For me, decorating wasn't just about making the room look pretty; it was about creating an environment where I feel happy and inspired every single day. It has been a slow process of collecting little pieces over time, but that's what makes it feel personal and meaningful."

One corner at a time

Kawaii-inspired decor does not have to be expensive. Even small touches can transform a room, like pastel bedding, floral lamps, or framed prints with soft motifs. "I just used the stuff I had collected over time, and then added a few new things from online and }Instagram shops. Most of them were affordable," Shruti says.

Her biggest learning? Do not rush. "I made the mistake of buying trending items just because they were popular. Now, I think more carefully before I purchase. It is better to take your time and build a space that reflects your true aesthetic."

Dessai insists the essence of Kawaii interior lies in authenticity. "Focus on pieces that really speak to you, rather than rushing to fill every corner. Slowly collecting items you love makes your room feel personal and meaningful. You can mix DIY projects, thrifted finds, and small, affordable accents with a few statement pieces to create a unique look. At its heart, Kawaii is about curating a space that feels soft, cosy and uniquely you," she says.

Pastel living

"Pastel shades have a calming effect on the mind, creating joy and optimism," Anjana adds. "It is no surprise that many, especially Gen Zs and Millennials, are drawn to these interiors for comfort and personal expression.

From a psychological perspective, pastel tones are known to reduce stress and encourage tranquillity. Aesthetically, they pair well with natural light, wooden furniture, and playful decor.

Anjari Ganguly, interior design content creator

The aesthetic also mirrors a broader cultural shift. With the blurring of childhood and adulthood boundaries in fashion and lifestyle, interiors too are embracing this 'kidult' spirit. Sonika Khurana, an interior design content creator, notes that pastels can be integrated practically into any home. "These pastel shades can be introduced in multiple ways. A pastel-painted wall behind the study desk, laminates in soft hues for storage units, or furnishings like curtains and chairs in calming tones can transform the energy of the space. The idea is to create a space that feels peaceful yet inspiring."

Comfort corners

Finding comfort in personal spaces is central to the Kawaii aesthetic. Chandana reflects, "After a long, stressful day, I always find myself craving the comfort of my space. It reminds me that good things will come, even if they take time, so just be patient and enjoy where you are right now."

Kawaii isn't limited to bedrooms or study corners. Pastel kitchenware, whimsical storage jars, or a make-up table with soft drawers and floral lamps can turn everyday routines into moments of joy. Even living areas can embrace this playful, calming aesthetic.

It's in these little corners and cosy details that the true charm of Kawaii comes alive, turning everyday spaces into sources of warmth and delight. And maybe that is the true spirit of Kawaii, finding joy and peace in the little things.

THE ULTIMATE GARDEN PLANNING PLAYBOOK

THE GREEN MANUAL

Ekta Chaudhary

An author, and founder of Garden Up, a company dedicated to greenifying spaces, Ekta is a trusted voice in the gardening community

BEFORE you crack open your wallet and start buying plants with names you can't pronounce, take a breath. Every gardening veteran knows: it's the planning that makes or breaks your garden dreams.

The questions pros ask (And you should too):

- Will this be a seasonal 'colour bomb' or a lifelong oasis?
- Balcony, window, or sprawling lawn – what's your real estate?
- Is your climate Chennai-humid, Mumbai-muggy or Manali-cool?
- Can you picture sipping coffee in your creation…or is this a rebellion against 'nature deficit disorder'?
- Native species or foreign flair – what'll thrive and survive?

Get real, get results

A pro's secret: Start small. Test-drive two or three 'bulletproof' plants, get to know their quirks, then scale up. Accessories aren't afterthoughts; a bench or swing to enjoy your kingdom is as important as the greenery. My favourites for beginners are pothos, snake plant, neon syngonium, rhapis palm.

Avoid these beginner boo-boos

Don't go bananas and overspend on rare exotics or showpieces. Set an intention – is it for food, fun, or finding your zen? And always plan with your hands and your head.

In sum: Take action and tranform

Great gardens aren't just for landscapes in magazines. With cheeky plant picks and some pro moves, your space can go from 'meh' to masterpiece – leaving the neighbours wondering if you've secretly hired a landscape magician. Feeling inspired? Now it's your turn to plant like one!

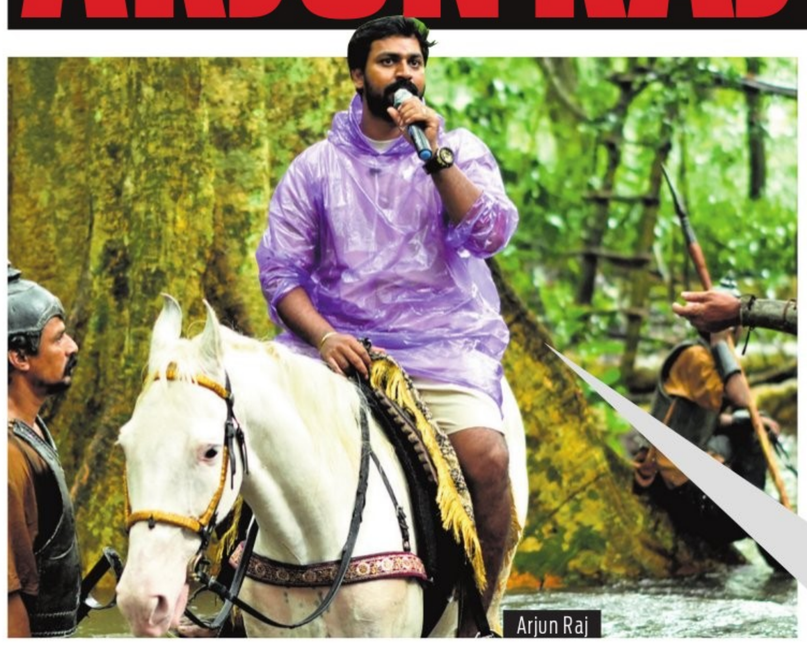
KANTARA CHAPTER 1 WILL SHOW THE WORLD JUST HOW POWERFUL INDIAN ACTION CAN BE

ARJUN RAJ



Arjun Raj

The actor–stunt choreographer opens up on bringing scale, risk and raw power to Kantara Chapter 1, how it has some of Indian cinema's grandest and costliest action sequences, breaks down its myth-laced action and praises Rishab Shetty for elevating each battle into spectacle

A SHARADHAA

WHEN Arjun Raj speaks about his journey, it feels like destiny unfolding. Today, he stands tall among the most sought-after action choreographers in Kannada cinema. And with Kantara Chapter 1, he has stepped into one of the grandest arenas yet.

But if his father, Anand Raj, a well-known fighter in Kannada films, had his way, Arjun would never have entered this world of bruises, risks, and uncertainty.

"My father wanted me to study and stay away from cinema. He had seen the injuries, the instability, the risks. But I was drawn to it. At first, I wanted to be an actor. He told me, 'Learn action, it will help you.' I listened. Somewhere along the way, what was meant to be a stepping stone became my life."

From Coffee Counters to Colossal Sets

Arjun's early path was far from glamorous. "I passed my 10th standard but didn't show much interest in academics. To support myself, I worked at a cafe while training in action on the side. I even went to Chennai to sharpen my craft. For a long time, my father didn't approve. He thought cinema wasn't safe. But action gave me an identity — and slowly, he became my biggest confidant."

17 years later, with more than a hundred films behind him, Arjun has progressed from being a body double to working with major actors, and from assisting masters to designing some of the most daring stunts in Kannada cinema. His latest? The breathtaking action in Rishab Shetty's Kantara Chapter 1 — a prequel set a thousand years before the 2022 blockbuster that gripped the nation.

Entering Kantara Chapter 1

When the offer came, Arjun almost didn't believe it. "I wasn't part of the project in the beginning. This was a massive canvas, and honestly, I thought I might not enter that league. I was in Varanasi when I prayed to be part of something huge. A few days later, I got the call. Initially, they wanted me for just one sequence. Later, they handed me four. Call it destiny, call it divine blessing — it happened." Arjun choreographed four major sequences, while the duo of Ram-Lakshman handled one, and Hollywood stunt director Todor Lazarov contributed to the war scenes.

Designing the Fights

Unlike regular action films where references are plenty, Kantara Chapter 1 demanded originality rooted in history and myth. "This story is set a thousand years ago. You can't just copy-paste from existing action films. Every move had to feel organic to that time. For instance, we had a massive carriage sequence. It wasn't just a prop; it was part of a high-speed chase involving Rishab and more than a thousand junior artists. That became the riskiest stunt I've ever designed," he says.

Then came a huge war sequence, the pre-climax, and the climax. "If the carriage fight was the riskiest, the war sequence was the most emotionally charged," Arjun says. "The pre-climax battle is my personal favourite. It wasn't just about swords clashing — it had emotion, loss, and triumph in every movement. The heartbeat of it all was Rishab's performance. Every fight was elevated because of his energy."

He points out another key detail: "We didn't use body doubles for Rishab. He performed bare-bodied, with a body language so distinct no dupe could replicate it. He trained in Kalaripayattu, sword fighting, and horse riding. Still, the risks he took was out of pure willpower. I've worked with many actors, but Rishab doesn't stop at 'I'll try my best.' He says, 'I'll do it till I am alive.' That spirit changes everything."

Scale, Trust, and Precision

Action of this scale requires more than skill; it demands trust. "The production house Hombale Films gave us a free hand. We worked with sketches, miniatures, and rehearsals before involving junior artists and the main actors. Each major sequence had at least six days of prep. Every fight consumed a lot of investment, touching a crore per day, and a lot of time. For example, we took 25 days to nail that carriage fight sequence, an additional six days for prep, and 15 days of rehearsals. Every bit of it was dedicated to just that one stretch."

Another first was introducing a Twisting Rig imported from Germany. "As far as I know, this is the first time it's being used in Indian cinema. I had to learn it myself. It opened a whole new dimension in staging action. In Hollywood, rigging is common practice, but bringing it into such a rooted story was a fresh challenge. Safety, balance, and believability was a delicate mix."

The scale was staggering: 100 trained fighters on set daily, plus thousands of extras. "It was a logistical nightmare, but also one of the most rewarding experiences of my life. In the end, we weren't just designing fights, we were reviving fragments of history, culture, and our roots. That's what makes Kantara different."

Looking Back, Moving Forward

As the conversation winds down, Arjun circles back to his father. "My father taught me resilience. Though he didn't want me to enter the cinema, he gave me the spirit to be here." For Arjun, Kantara Chapter 1 is his grandest project yet: "We have our own roots, our own stories, our own legends, and Kantara Chapter 1 will show the world just how powerful Indian action can be."

Bilichukki Hallihakki locks release date

A still from the film

CE FEATURES

BILICHUKKI HALLIHAKKI, produced, directed, and headlined by Mahira-fame Mahesh Gowda, is already drawing curiosity with its posters. The film has now locked in its release date for October 24 across Karnataka.

From what the director has revealed so far, the film leans on an unusual subject. It is the first Kannada film to be centred on vitiligo—commonly known as tonnu—a condition many live with, yet rarely seen on screen. While the medical world classifies it as a skin disorder, what surrounds it are layers of stigma, myth, and misunderstanding. Mahesh attempts to capture the inner turmoil of a life touched by vitiligo, weaving it into a narrative that resists easy assumptions.

Mahesh, who first directed Mahira, spent considerable time preparing before mounting this film under the HonnuDi Productions banner. Adding depth to the story is theatre talent Kajal Kundar, who steps in as Kavitha. In a unique turn, Mahesh, who has vitiligo, plays the protagonist, bringing lived experience to the role.

The ensemble also includes Veena Sundar, Jahangir, and Ravi Bhat in pivotal roles.

December is the right time to strike with Mark: Sudeep

A still from Mark

Ahead of his birthday, the star maps his focus on one film a year, explains why his next film must arrive by year-end despite a crowded box office, and sets his roadmap toward bigger cinema with BRB

Sudeep

CE FEATURES

THE much-anticipated title announcement of Kichcha Sudeepa's K47 was revealed ahead of the actor's birthday celebration on September 2. Titled Mark, the film will present the Pan-India actor in a commanding new avatar, complete with a striking hairstyle that has already caught everyone's attention. A collaboration between TG Thyagarajan's Sathya Jyothi Films and Kichcha Creatiions, Mark reunites Sudeep with director Vijay Kartikeyaa after the blockbuster success of Max. Produced by Arjun Thyagarajan and Senthil Thyagarajan, with music by Ajaneesh B. Loknath and cinematography by Shekar Chandra, Mark is expected to be the grand release to close the year.

For Sudeep, the teaser isn't just a reveal—it's a statement. "This is a very well-planned film. When we announced the project in July, we had also said that we have December 2025 in mind, and that target hasn't changed," he says. "I want to make sure that I have one release a year. If the film is done in time, it can be released on time. That discipline matters."

With nearly half the film already shot, the team is working "day and night" to meet its October wrap-up deadline. "I give full credit to my technical crew. They've planned everything perfectly. When budgets become huge, cinema gets tougher. But if you deliver fast and well, you save money. That's where efficiency is an achievement," he notes.

Yet, December 2025 will see a crowded battlefield. Darshan's The Devil has already been announced for that window, releasing on December 12, while Arjun Janya's directorial 45, starring Shivarajkumar, Upendra, and Raj B Shetty, is also set to release on December 25 for Christmas. Sudeep brushes off the notion of rivalry. "It is just a perception. I'm not here to challenge anyone. I'm working for my film, my industry, my people, and my fans. The rest ends there," he says firmly, adding, "December is the right window. After that, you hit exam season, then IPL. If I push to June or July, it makes no sense. Unlike Tamil Nadu, where Pongal means extended celebrations, here it's just one day. Why wait?"

Even as Mark races toward completion, Sudeep already has his next moves planned. Once he wraps up this film, he will turn his focus to BRB, a massive venture eyeing a Christmas 2026 release. "Yes, BRB is next on the cards," he confirms. "That will be a big one, and I want to give it the time it deserves."

In parallel, discussions are underway for another project that could also arrive in 2026 alongside BRB. "I'm in talks with a few directors. Once Mark is done, I'll confirm one more film for 2026," he reveals. Amid these film commitments, Sudeep is also gearing up to return as the host of the next season of Bigg Boss Kannada.
